M'KINLEY MEMORY

Anniversary of the Death of the Honored President Observed in Buffalo, N. Y.

SERVICES IN ALL THE CHURCHES

A Public Meeting Was held During the Afternoon at Which a Number of Addresses Were Made.

SERVICES HELD IN OTHER PLACES

BUFFALO, N. Y., September 15.—The anniversary of the death of William McKinley was universally observed in this city yesterday. The pastors in all the churches paid tribute to the memory of the martyred president, and the congregations sang his favorite hymns. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Lead, Kindly Light," were sung by the worshipers in small chapels and missions and gloriously intoned on the great organs in the larger churches, seemingly with special significance and fervor.

In the afternoon a public meeting was held in the City Convention hall at which addresses were made by Mayor Knight, Rev. C. E. Locke and others.

The auditorium was crowded and hundreds were turned away. Despite the presence of the immence throng, a reverential quiet prevailed throughout the services. The interior of the hall was decorated with the national colors. A large oil painting of the dead president, festooned in flags, faced the audience. Over the portrait was a banner inscribed with the words uttered by the president on his deathbed. "It is God's way." Mayor Erastus C. Knight presided.

"Today in all parts of this broad land," said the mayor, "the American people are mourning, as we are, the untimely death of President McKinley. Proclamations have been issued by the governors of many states, requesting the people to observe this as McKinley Memorial Day and suggesting appropriate services in all the churches.

"In this city, where our beloved president met his death, it was deemed proper that some further manifestation of the sorrow of our people be expressed. A citizens' committee has arranged this meeting and provided a program in keeping with the occasion. Although I believe that it is unneccessary to do so, I respectfully request the audience to refrain from expressing their approval of the remarks of the speakers in the usual manner."

The services were opened with Chopin's funeral march by the orchestra. After the invocation the choir of 100 voices and the audience sang, "Lead, Kindly Light."

Addresses were made by the Rev. E. C. Locke Tracy C. Becker and A. M. Smith. "Nearer My God to The" and America" were sung by the audience and the services ended with Mendelssohn's funeral march by the orchestra.

Today memorial services were held in all the public schools.

Adjudged a Witch.

In the Cumberland county criminal court Thursday Mrs. Sarah McBride of Carlisle was convicted of witchcraft after a few day's trial. The testimony was overwhelming against her. This remarkable verdict, which recalls the rare old blue laws under which witches were burned in the vicinity of sanctimonious Salem, Mass., is said to be unique in modern criminal annals. The formal charges in the indictment upon which Mrs. McBride, a woman of 60, was tried, stipulated that she had indulged in fortune telling, necromancy and false pretenses.

A man and his wife claimed that they paid Mrs. McBride over $500, in return for which she gave them information concerning the location of a $30,000 treasure hidden in their yard. The man dug for the money, but did not find it. A number of witnesses testified that they had paid money to Mrs. McBride to have witches removed.

Pawnee Bill's Wild West

Coming Saturday Sept. 20. Double its former size and with many added features of a massive and startling order Pawnee Bill's Wild West is coming to visit us. Ten hundred and over are the number of people and horses employed this year, Indians and Cowboys from the western plains, Imperial Russian Cossacks, Riffen, Arabs, Japanese Athletes, Southern American Ganchos, Mexican Lariet Kings, Soldiers from European Armies in grand military reviews are among some or the many features of this great exhibition.

IN OTHER COUNTIES.

Items of Interest Clipped or Condensed from Our Exchanges.

Johnstown had one fatality from smallpox on Saturday last—Lawrence Bopp, aged 45 years.

Among the other incidents demanding the attention of the Westmoreland county court at the present session are thirteen applications for divorce.

The Everett Glass works, which have been idle for the past two years, again resumed active business, Monday, September 8. By this industry employment will be given to about seventy-five men and boys.

Frank Gillan, of Gallitzin, a well known contractor, drove his horse, McGreggor, to Indiana, Friday, to attend the fair and upon reaching that place the horse died. Its death is supposed to have been caused by the long drive.

Instantly killed by a flying timber he himself had just sawed off was Nelson Nichols, a carpenter at Klondike works, Westmorela y, Saturday morning. He was aged about 45 years and leaves a family of six children.

David Hare was found near Scottdale, Friday night, about 12 o'clock, with both legs and his right arm cut off. He was taken to the Westmoreland hospital at Greensburg, where he was cared for. He is aged about 21 years and is in a critical condition.

At Saturday's session of the United Evangelical conference at Franklin the Scalp Level appointment was detached from Windber and made a station, the Mestollar appointment was detached from the Fairview circuit and annexed to the Jennertown circuit.

At Karthaus a few night ago thieves entered Dr. W. S. Gilliland's store, blew open the safe and secured $15, twenty dozen pocket knives and a number of checks. They are believed to be the ones who operated at the Pennsylvania railroad station at Antes Fort.

Anselm Weakland, an old and respected citizen of Elder township, Cambria county, died at his home on Monday of last week, aged 70 years. The deceased was born in Carroll township, March 21, 1833, and was a son of Samuel Weakland, one of the early settlers of Carroll township.

The DuBois Courier tells of a bloody riot at Sykesville between five Americans and a score of foreigners in which the latter were driven off, but not until they had fractured the skull and otherwise seriously injured John Sykes, one of the proprietors of the hotel. Two other men were injured, but will recover. The affair was quite realistic for a time.

While driving to his father's mine for a load of coal young Peter Shedeck, at Karthaus, a few days ago, saw smoke issuing from the powder house. Thinking he might be able to extinguish the fire he ran to the building, arriving at the door just as it blew up. He was hurled several rods over a high embankment, where his father and brother found him, his clothing in flames. The flesh came off with his clothes when they were torn off. He died in an hour.

Clearfield Public Spirit: Mrs. Eliza Gulich, an aged lady just outside of the Third ward, in Lawrence township, was seriously if not fatally burned Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. She was fixing the fire in the kitchen stove when in some manner her clothing caught fire. She ran out of the house and fell down near where her granddaughter, Mrs. H. L. Murray, of Washington, D. C., who has been spending the summer with her, was hanging up a washing, and seeing the burning clothes on her grandmother she secured an old overcoat and threw it around her, thus smothering out the flames which had already burned her quite severely about the body and arms.

Greensburg Tribune: Mrs. E. J. Houck and children, of Latrobe, who were camping in the Sugar Loaf mountains near Confluence, met with a frightful accident Thursday on the narrow gauge railway that runs to a lumber camp on the mountains. Mrs. Houck and children, accompanied by Mr. Baldwin, a brother of Mrs. Houck, were coming down the mountains on a lumber truck, which soon got beyond control, jumping the track, scattering the party in all directions. Mrs. Houck, who was sitting on the front end of the truck was thrown beneath the wrecked car sustaining serious but not fatal injuries. Howard, the little 4-year-old son, was hurled twenty feet over an embankment and frightfully cut and bruised about the head and body.

—Twenty thousand people attended the Grand Army reunion at Lakemont park, Altoona, Saturday.

ONLY ONE OUTBREAK

Otherwise All Was Quiet in the Anthracite Coal Region During Monday

DEPUTIES WERE PLENTY

No Marches Were Attempted, Neither Was there Any Attempt Made to Resume Work at Collieries.

GENERAL GOBIN TELLS OF TROOPS

WILKESBARRE, September 16.—Sheriff Jacobs and a large number of deputies assembled at the court house at an early hour Monday morning in anticipation of trouble occurring at some of the mines. But outside of an outbreak at Old Forge, in which an Italian was badly beaten by strikers, the day was a very quiet one in the strike region. National Board Member John Fallon went to Nanticoke early in the morning to head off any trouble in that section, and other prominent officials of the United Mine Workers went to other parts of the country to advise against any marches on the collieries. But no marches were attempted, neither was there any effort made to resume work at any of the big mines. It is said the attempt may be made when least expected, probably some day this week.

An important conference was held at strike headquarters. Among those who took part were President Mitchell, District Presidents Nicholls, Duffy, Faby, and National Treasurer Wilson, of Indianapolis, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

SHENANDOAH, September 16.—When General Gobin was asked Monday relative to published reports that the ranks of the troops on duty are thinning out, the reply was as follows:

"The facts are that on July 31, when the troops were ordered on duty, their reports showed an aggregate of 649 men in the Eighth regiment 610 men in the Twelfth regiment and fifty-seven men in the Governor's Troop. The morning reports made yesterday show the present aggregate to be 660 in the Eighth regiment, 624 in the Twelfth regiment, and fifty-six in the Governor's Troop. The Second City Troop had an aggregate of fifty-seven when it reported for duty and yesterday's reports shows that every organization has more men than it had when the organization came here except the governor's troops, and it has only lost one man. There have been very few discharges and four-fifths of those discharged have re-enlisted. In addition to this, forty-eight men who were not members of the National Guard when the troops were ordered into service, have come here from the home stations of the various companies and have enlisted."

Colonel Clement, commanding the Twelfth regiment, said:

"The report that three members of my regiment were discharged for refusing to obey orders declaring they would not under any circumstances fight the strikers is not true. Nothing of the kind has occurred.

Couldn't Ship Their Apples.

The scarcity of cars is working great hardship to Nittany Valley farmers. Arrangements had been made to ship three car loads from Mackeyville to Pittsburg last week, but only one car could be procured. After hauling their apples to the station, the farmers were compelled to haul them home again. There is a great demand for apples from Pittsburg.

—According to a decision of the United States Circuit court of appeals, a tavern keeper may be held responsible for the death of a patron of his place in the event that death occurs from an accident resulting from the intoxicated condition of the patron.

—The treasury warrant for $39,600 was orwarded Monday to Mrs. Ida McKinley, widow of the late president, for salary which would have been due him on July 1, 1902, the appropriation for which was made at the last session of congress.

—H. Steele Smith, for twelve years clerk in the First National bank of Hollidaysburg, has been chosen cashier of the Frst National bank of Gallitzin.

—The machinery for the new erecting shop at Oak Grove has arrived, and preparations are being made to place it in position.

A Ghastly Find.

Saturday's Philipsburg Ledger says:

Great excitement reigned on Ninth street Philipsburg about noon Friday when it was learned that the badly decomposed body of George S. Turner an eccentric old man who led a hermit's existence in a house at the north end of Ninth street, had been discovered by Captain Harry Simler. A young man from out of town went to Turner's on business but failed to gain admittance. He sought Captain Simler's aid to investigate the matter. The bad odor coming from the key-hole led them to believe something was seriously wrong and they broke the door down, to find the object of their search sitting upon a chair in the middle of the kitchen stiff and stark in death. He had not been seen by the neighbors for a couple of weeks but his step son, John Frantz says he had been to the house last week and the old man was in his usual condition. From the terrible state of the body death must have occurred a week or ten days ago.

On his person was found a gold hunting-case watch and an open-face silver watch, $331.13 in cash, $400 in Clearfield Fire Brick bonds, $100 in Clearfield Borough bonds, $500 in Clearfield Water Company bonds, $500 in Wallaceton Fire Brick bonds; certificate of deposit County National bank $700, certificate of deposit Clearfield County bank $1400.

That the old man with all this money about him lived and died alone and unmolested is rather remarkable. He was childless but his wife survives, confined, hopelessly mad, in an insane asylum. Several brothers are also living, the natural heirs to their brother's wealth which is said to reach $10,000.

Two Attempts at Burglary.

The family of Eugene Krone, the watchmaker at Clarence, this county, have had some unpleasant experiences recently from the visits of burglars, although in both instances the would-be burglar has been frightened away without obtaining any booty. These nocturnal visitors were doubtless encouraged by the absence of Mr. Krone from home. The first attempt was made about midnight on August 28. Mrs. Krone heard the man enter the house and called her son, Emil who armed with a gun, soon put the intruder to flight. He recognized the fellow and shot at him, but evidently did not hit him.

Again one night the early part of last week a man attempted to enter the basement window. But this time also Mrs. Krone, who seems to sleep with her ears open, heard his blundering attempts, especially as the burglar let a window screen fall. She called Emil and the burglar was quickly frightened away.

We understand that the identity of the burglars is known in both instances. Mr. Krone will be at home for some time in the future, attending to his watch-repairing business, and if another attempt is made he will have all of them brought to justice and punished. The object was doubtless to steal some jewelry which Mr. Krone is supposed to keep in his house; but he advises the next visitor of the sort to bring along a wheelbarrow and also some one to haul him away.

He Planted Half Acre in Onions.

M. S. Bond, of Cloiasky, Northumberland county, last spring planted a half acre in onions. Of the half acre under cultivation Mr. Bond sold $118 worth of green onions, disposing of them in bunches at the curbstone market. This reduced the ground under cultivation from one-half to three-eighths of an acre. From this fraction of an acre he has gathered 350 bushels of dried onions, which find a ready sale today at seventy-five cents per bushel, but which before the holidays can be disposed of at a much higher figure, probably at one dollar per bushel. Mr. Bond's experiment has shown that an acre of ground will produce over 900 bushels of dried onions, a commodity which can easily be disposed of, if not in the local market at least by shipping. The price seldom falls below the figure quoted above and is often above it. A little figuring, it would seem, must convince any farmer, who is familiar with the cost of the onion settings and the labor involved, that there is more money in onions, than he is apt to realize in the cultivation of any other kind of truck not excepting tomatoes, which are considered a profitable crop. Corn, wheat or any of the farm staples could not be made to produce forty-five dollars per acre.

—The Pennsylvania is equipping all its turntables at important points so as to operate them by electric power. The company is making the changes as an economical measure, in doing the work of six or eight men at the more important points and doing it more expeditiously.

HENDERSON DECLINES.

He Gives His Reasons For Not Again Running for Congress.

DEFIED THE CROWD AND ESCAPED

An Unfaithful Wife Shot by an Enraged Husband and Will Die. Four Bullets Fired Into Her Body.

HER PARAMOUR MADE HIS ESCAPE

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 17.—Speaker Henderson, finding that his views in respect to the treatment of trusts by reducing the tariff in whole or in part are not in accord with the views of many of his party in Iowa, has declined to accept the nomination for Congress and has withdrawn from the race. The following letter was addressed to C. E. Albrook, chairman of the notification committee, Eldora, Ia., by Mr. Henderson:

"MY DEAR SIR:—I have never answered the note received from you advising me of my nomination for the eleventh time, by acclamation, as the Republican candidate for Congress for the Third Congressional district of Iowa. Reported conditions in the public mind in my district upon public policies induced me to make this delay. Since my return to the district I have made a careful study as to the sentiment in the district and state, and I believe there is no little sentiment, and a growing sentiment, among Republicans that I do not truly represent their views on the tariff question. Believing this condition to exist, and knowing that I do not agree with many of my people that trusts, to which I am and have been opposed, can be cured, or the people benefitted by free trade, in whole or in part, I must decline to accept the nomination so generously and enthusiastically made. I have devoted twenty of the best years of my life to the service of my people and my country and I have fought for what I believed to be best for the farmer, the laborer and the business interests of this district and state. I am grateful for the devotion that has ever been accorded me and to the hour of my death I will hold in a grateful heart the memory of that devotion.

"I will give, later on, in some detail, my views and convictions on our conditions and public questions, and will state my reasons why the Republican party and its policies should continue in the confidence of the voters and why the doctrines of the democracy should find no lodgment in the faith and teachings of the Republican party.

"Very truly yours,

"D. B. HENDERSON."

Speaker Henderson announced his withdrawal after a conference of several hours' duration with Chairman Glasser, of the congressional committee, and friends yesterday afternoon. Speaker Henderson has been contemplating this action for two weeks, but had intimated nothing of it to friends until Monday. At yesterday's conference his friends implored him not to take the action, but to no avail. He said he had made up his mind and no argument could cause him to change his decision.

PITTSBURG, September 17.—Steve Manovitch, a Hungarian, of Versailles, returned home unexpectedly yesterday, and it is explained, found his wife in the company of another man. While hunting his revolver the man escaped and, Manovitch then turned the revolver on his wife, firing four bullets into her body.

A crowd quickly surrounded the house, but Manovitch forced his way out at the point of the revolver and fled to the hills. The woman is unconscious and will die. A posse is searching for the husband.

Bishop Garvey's New Residence.

Ground has been broken at Twelfth alley and Thirteenth street, Altoona, for a new residence for Bishop Garvey, of this Catholic diocese. The contract price is $20,000 and the residence will be modern in every respect. Bishop Garvey has announced that the residence will be built by the diocese inasmuch as the plans of President Charles M. Schwab to build the bishop a residence had not been definitely settled. He also stated that Mr. Schwab would most likely contribute toward the erection of a house.

—Scratch, scratch, scratch, unable to attend to business during the day or sleep during the night. Itching piles, horrible plague. Doan's Ointment cures Never fails. At any drug store, 50 cents.

SHORT AND PITHY.

Vote for Pennypacker and prosperity. If you prefer the other, then vote for Pattison and ruin.

Senator Penrose, by his sledge-hammer blows, Tuesday knocked the props from under the whole democratic machine.

Hon. Alexander E. Patton by his tactful little speech at Centre Hall on Tuesday, showed him to be a diplomat in politics.

Phil Foster in a quiet way is circulating throughout the county and making hosts of friends, who will stand him well on election day.

The working man has no notion of closing down our industries just for the fun of having the good old democratic times of six years ago.

With Strohm and Schoonover in the legislature, Centre County need have no fear of a Bryan Silverite, receiving their support for United States Senator.

Robert "Everytime" Pattison cannot controvert the fact and statistics presented by Hon. Charles Emory Smith on Tuesday. He may make assertions but figures don't lie.

The automobile is getting in its work but fortunately the fatalities thus far are confined to a class far removed from editors, they like a shining mark and the victims must be gold plated.

With Miller, Bailey and Humpton in the Commissioner's office, the tax payers of Centre County can confidently expect the affairs of the county to be managed judiciously and with economy.

The democrats evidently expects but few of their own party to be at the Grange Park today, as the posters announcing the gathering closes with this invitation:—"All good democrats should attend."

Hon. Samuel W. Pennypacker made friends among the enemy at Grange Park. His appearance and manner showing him to be a man who can be trusted. He is one of the people and not above them.

The speeches of all the gentlemen at the Grange Picnic were marked by the courteous manner in which they spoke of Mr. Pattison and the other candidates on the democratic ticket. Principles, not men were discussed.

We do not know how the farmers will take with the kid-glove aristocratic candidate for governor, as he is exhibited at Centre Hall today. Beside the plain, practical Pennypacker, he will loose by comparison.

Register Archey has a tired and woe-be-gone look, caused by the fact that his chances for re-election are hopeless. Aleck need not care, for he has one of the finest farms in Centre County, and a good fat bank account besides money invested.

Hon. Henry Wetzel and J. Will Kepler the democratic candidates for Legislature are having up hill work to get republican promises of support. The people are satisfied at the way things are going and do not consider a change necessary.

Philip Meyer, the fine basso singer of the Commissioner's office, has lost heart in his campaign, and is thinking seriously of holding musical institutes after the first of January. Philip is a nice man, but has not the calibre to be a successful or acceptable commissioner.

Hon. S. R. Dresser is one of the people, and although a man of means, has accumulated his wealth in an honest and honorable manner. He is one of the most public spirited and benevolent men in his native city, and will receive the support of his friends and neighbors without regard to politics. He has been tried and found worthy of their trust.

The Centre Democrat in last week's issue talks about the working men's empty pail. Let Editor Kurtz try to find some empty dinner pails around Bellefonte. He can only do so after the dinner hour. There are neither hungry nor idle men in this neck of woods. He evidently was thinking of the days when soup houses were in vogue, during Cleveland's last administration.

The Clearfield Republican, the democratic organ of Clearfield County, tries to explain who and what D. E. Hibner their candidate for Congress, is, it does not state how he stands on protection. All we can learn from the article is that at fourteen years of age he swept out a hardware store. Why bless his heart, they graduate from that in Centre County at ten years. He must hunt up something better than this to make much of a run over here.

THE ATTACHE

By P. Y. BLACK

Copyright, 1901, by P. Y. Black

Cannon and Powers rose and howled with joy when their striker brought in the card, a most official card—"Mr. Kido Mabuchi, the Japanese Legation, Washington, D. C." In the big school in Massachusetts where Mabuchi as a boy had studied the mysteries of American civilization, with Cannon and Powers as his chief instructors, he had struggled through a course of football. He now required all the power of muscular resistance thus gained to withstand the onslaught of these friends of his school days.

"You monsters! You dragons of America!" he cried, falling backward into the only armchair the youngsters' bare quarters possessed. "Has West Point, then, not reformed you?"

"Shut up, you lovely little brute, and come to my bosom again! Ain't he sweet, Powers? Observe his little tan tootsicums. The dude has been built in London and Paris. Kido, oh, Kido, is this a grateful return for all the republican simplicity you imbibed at Halton?"

They sat down, one on either side of Mabuchi. Their tall, bony, wire woven frames far overtopped that of the graceful oriental.

"Well, tell me, then," said Mabuchi, smiling.

"Tell you? It's you who've got to do the telling, Kido!" they cried together. "We've nothing to tell," Cannon added. "When you left for the war, we got through West Point somehow and are existing among cowboys and Indians on these broad, unlovely plains. It was good of you to come to see us, as we could not come to Washington, but you always were a decent little specimen of foreign bric-a-brac. Now tell us about yourself."

"It is not much to tell. When my country went to war with China, I was ordered home, you know. Then I served with the army, and the honorable general spoke well of me in dispatches and I was promoted. The war ended, and my government sent me to travel. I was everywhere—London, St. Petersburg, Berlin, Vienna and Paris."

"How I should have liked to do Paris with you! There's a French count, an ex-officer, here stopping with the colonel. I suppose you met heaps of them in Paris? He's studying America too. Count—Count—what's his name—Count"—

"Count Diceandbass!" cried the striker, opening the door of the young officers' sitting room to usher in an elderly, wax mustached Frenchman. Powers and Cannon advanced to greet the new visitor. Kido Mabuchi rose slowly, his yellow brown face turning gray.

"Count d'Eisenbas," Powers said, "we are honored. Let me introduce to you Mr. Kibo Mabuchi of the Japanese legation and an old school friend of ours. We were just telling him it was curious that you and he, both studying us savages for the benefit of your governments, should meet at such an out of the way hole as Fort Drake."

The count made a rush of effusive greeting at the Japanese, who coolly took his hand.

"Mon Dieu, gentlemen! You afford to me surprises the most welcome."

"You know each other, then?" said Powers.

"Know!" cried D'Eisenbas. "We are comrades since long time!"

"Yes," said Kido, and the laugh was gone from the eyes which had sparkled on his old friends, "we met in Paris."

"And are ravished to meet in America!" cried the count with a hand on either of Mabuchi's shoulders.

Cannon and Powers looked at each other in amazement. It was impossible not to note the dearth of delight in Kido's face.

"On this hot afternoon, when I had nothing to do, I remembered our last game at pokair, gentlemen, and I said: 'Ha! I shall go and have my r-revanche from the youthful giants, Messrs. Cannon and Powair.' May I? For Mabuchi at baccarat, ecarte and the games of Paris. I know, but pokair"—

"I pray—excuse me," said Mabuchi gravely. "I no longer play cards."

"Ah! Since Paris?" cried d'Eisenbas, with a shooting glance.

"Since Paris," Kido assented calmly.

"Pshaw, Kido," cried Cannon, "you'll simply have to play poker in Washington. Count, let me offer you something cooling. Kido—why your glass is full yet!"

"I don't touch anything," said Mabuchi gravely.

"Since Paris?" again the Frenchman asked and mocked.

"Since Paris," said Mabuchi.

"Ah, I see, you want not to play pokair. You have much to talk. Au revoir, my American giants. We shall meet at the colonel's. Mabuchi, shall we meet?"

"We shall meet," said Kido, rising and bowing with grave oriental ceremony.

The school chums stared on Kido.

"What the devil happened to you in Paris?" Cannon cried again. "Why did that Frenchman grin in that measly way, as if—as if he owned you? Speak, you little lump of bronze. What mischief did you have the nerve to get into without Powers and me to haul you out again?"

In the corner of the colonel's broad veranda that night Count d'Eisenbas spoke in French briefly and coldly to the little Japanese.

"I cornered you here on purpose," he said. "I have given you a year, and you are not ready. Well, tomorrow you must make good your promise or I shall hand these notes in my breast pocket to your chief."

Kido Mabuchi went home to his bunk, hastily fitted up in Cannon's room, but slept not at all.

In the morning when his chums came in from stables and early company drills they found the attache sealing letters on which he had been very busy and which he now put in his pocket.

He was very amiable, very cheerful and very calm. It is something to have had ancestors of oriental blood and oriental faith; it is something to be able to say when the hour has come: "Is it, then, time? Good. Just a minute, and I shall be ready," to finish the cigarette calmly, to nod to friends a smiling adieu and then to perform the harakiri decently and with regard to other people's sensibilities.

The hour before sundown is admirable for target shooting. The four went down to the range late in the afternoon. The count had been bragging a little of his skill with a rifle, and Cannon and Powers had coaxed the Japanese into making a match with him. D'Eisenbas mocked at that. He seemed to have a great contempt for the attache.

"Mais—Mabuchi?" he laughed. "I shall beat him at the r-range, as I beat him at ecarte in Paris. What are the—en Anglais—stakes?"

Kido's eyes involuntarily flashed on the Frenchman's breast pockets, and the count grinned in a way which Cannon and Powers resented, but could not understand.

Powers and D'Eisenbas were to mark for Kido, and Cannon and Mabuchi for D'Eisenbas.

"It is very simple," said Cannon for the count's benefit. "While you mark, Count d'Eisenbas, bullseye, four, three whatever the shot is, the targets revolve, and Powers will paste the hole in the lower one. Remember, be careful to wiggle waggle the danger flag distinctly if you want to examine closely."

Then Kido saw the gates open before him and was content. This matter of suicide might be very simply arranged. Powers would be in the pit with him, stooping down with his pasters at the lowered target. The count was a fair shot at least. At 300 yards he could hardly miss. What so simple as to leap up in the nick of time and receive the bullet? It was not the harakiri, to be sure, but in matters of suicide one should accommodate oneself to place and other circumstances.

D'Eisenbas won the toss and elected to have Kido shoot first. He and Powers went to the butt to mark. Kido began to shoot at 300 yards mechanically, and, behold, the gates closed! Fate laughs at schemes. The plan of Kido was shattered. D'Eisenbas, wrathful at the Jap's good shots, forgetting where he was, forgetting the danger signal, leaped up with an oath to challenge a bullseye and fell back again in the pit, shot through his plotting brain.

Kido rushed into Cannon's arms with strange, mad eyes.

"It is the gods!" he screeched. "It was no murder. I meant it the other way because I could not perform harakiri on myself in your honorable room. Look, then, look!"

Cannon clutched the letter Kido had written in the morning. In it the attache told his tale—the untold tale of many another in the clutches of the "secret service" of unscrupulous European governments. D'Eisenbas had failed to corrupt the secretary by bribe or promise, but in Paris he had introduced him to cards and women, and the women had got from the lad a few of Japan's plans for fortification and army organization. Threatened with disclosure by the spy, who also held over his head notes of hand for "debts of honor," Kido saw but one way to escape disclosure and disgrace. But the gods had forbidden it. The count instead was dead.

"I shot him," he said over and over again, "but it was not murder. I meant him to shoot me."

"We understand," said his chums. "It's all right, and the gods have more horse sense today than usual. We'll take these papers from his pockets and destroy them and report the circumstances—sad accident—prominent men—you know."

"And he's really dead?"

"Sure dead," said Powers. "But try to look decently regretful, Kido."

A Tart Retort.

Lord Roberts once found himself the center of a circle of new friends in a London club. There was a very tall gentleman present, who, evidently believing himself to shine as a wit, seized every opportunity to raise a laugh at the other people's expense. On being introduced to Lord Roberts the wit bent down patronizingly to his lordship and remarked:

"I have often heard of you, but"—shading his eyes with one hand as though the famous general, being so small, could be seen only with difficulty—"I have never seen you."

To this Lord Roberts promptly replied:

"I have often seen you, sir, but I have never heard of you."

Saving His Father's Hair.

Lord Charles was often troubled by importunate acquaintances, who begged for some of his father's (the Duke of Wellington) hair. On such occasions he said to an old servant whose hair was like the duke's: "Sit down, John. I must cut off another lock!"

The eggs of silkworms can withstand, without injury, a temperature of 38 degrees below zero.

RECALLING A LETTER

HOW YOU MAY GET IT OUT OF THE MAIL AFTER POSTING IT.

The Postal Authorities Have a System by Which a Document May Be Reclaimed if Application Is Made Before It Is Delivered.

A few days ago a young woman hurried into the office of the postmaster at New York and asked to have a letter withdrawn from the mails. She had posted it an hour previously, she said, and since then had learned something about Mr. Blank that incensed her; therefore she did not want to keep the appointment she had consented to in the letter. Could she reclaim the missive before it reached the addressee? she inquired.

The postmaster referred her to the superintendent of mails, and within half an hour the letter was picked out from among thousands of its mates and restored to the claimant, who tore it into bits and walked out of the postoffice.

The authorities of the postoffice have made every provision for absent and fickle minded patrons of the mails. Among the most interesting and valuable is the process by which a letter may be reclaimed after it has been posted.

Comparatively few people know that this can be done, and fewer care to take the trouble of going through the forms which have been prescribed—forms which are to a degree cumbersome and time consuming, but which, nevertheless, are necessary to prevent deception and fraud.

Occasions arise when the writer of an important letter desires to withdraw it before it reaches its destination. Oftentimes additional knowledge of a proposed transaction is acquired after a letter has been sent to the postoffice, making it highly desirable that the facts related in the letter do not reach the person for whom they were originally intended. In case, too, where knowledge of the failure of a mercantile firm or a banking house reaches a person who has mailed a check or draft to that concern it is sometimes wise to withdraw the letter before it is delivered.

The postal authorities have a system by which such a letter may be reclaimed if application is made for it before it is delivered. Application must be made in person. The government provides a blank upon which the applicant writes the address that is given on the letter. If that letter has not left the postoffice, the superintendent of mails finds it and compares the address on the envelope with the address on the applicant's slip. If the addresses are identical, the letter is returned to the claimant and the authorities keep the slip as a receipt.

To reclaim a letter sent out of the office the writer must fill out the prescribed blank and deposit $1 for telegrams. The superintendent of mails then telegraphs the postoffice to which the letter has been sent and asks him to return it. When it reaches him, he compares the addresses, and if they are alike he returns the letter to the applicant. The expense of telegraphing is deducted from the deposit, and the balance is returned.

This involves a study of handwriting. If there is a noticeable difference in the little things which are characteristic—the manner of crossing the "t's" or the dotting of the "i's" or the peculiar little flourishes which are made after a name—the letter is not delivered to the claimant. In cases where letters are addressed by typewriter it is impossible to identify the applicant in this way.

When the claimant is a well known business man, however, personally known to the postal authorities, letters are sometimes returned upon his mere request, a receipt, however, being asked.

At the New York postoffice, according to the first assistant postmaster, the average number of letters withdrawn each week is ten. Most of these are from the domestic mails. Few are from the city mails, because the letters are collected so frequently and delivered so quickly that there is little chance of "catching" a letter in the office.

Occasionally letters which have been addressed to foreign countries are asked to be returned. In such a case a deposit of $25 is required to cover the expense of telegraph and cable tolls. Letters addressed to points in almost every country on the face of the earth may be reclaimed in this way if application is made before the missive is delivered to the addressee.

Great Britain, however, takes the stand that a letter when once dropped in a mail box becomes the property of the addressee, but makes exception in the cases of the Cape and Australian colonies. Why this exception the local postal authorities do not knew.—New York Times.

The Gold Pioneers.

Poverty has been the common lot of the gold pioneers. Marshall and Sutter, who found the precious metal in California; Fairweather, the prospector of Alder gulch; Russell and Gregory, the pioneers of Colorado—all died poor. Comstock, who unearthed the Comstock lode, the richest silver vein, committed suicide because of his hard luck.

Growing Suspicious.

"I wonder who it was that said politeness doesn't cost anything," said Farmer Corntossel.

"Don't you believe it?"

"Well, I have my doubts. Whenever I go to town and some stranger is especially polite to me I always feel as if it was liable to cost me anywhere from $1 to $75, accordin' to how much I happen to have."—Washington Star.

Training Shepherd Dogs.

The natives of Mexico seem to have an original way of training shepherd dogs. A pup is taken from its mother as soon after birth as possible, the breed of the dog being immaterial. The young of a sheep or goat is taken away, and the pup is substituted.

After the first few days the pup is never fed except just before the flock goes to pasture in the morning and just after the sheep are brought in at night.

As soon as he can walk he goes out with the flock and stays with it all day. Whenever he begins to anticipate supper by trying to drive the flock in before sundown he gets punished.

After he is about a year old he takes a flock out, guards it from other dogs and coyotes during the day and brings it in at the proper time at night without supervision. All kinds of temptations can be tried on any dog that is encountered in the hills with his flock, but in spite of all he will remain faithful to his duty, driving his flock to a safe distance before venturing to make the acquaintance of any other dog.

Peculiarities of Russian Winters.

There is one curious thing about a Russian winter—in the latter part of October or the beginning of November the weather will be as mild as it is here in September. Not a sign can be seen of an approaching change, when suddenly, without any apparent warning, a light haze will be seen in the northern sky, and in twenty-four hours the thermometer may fall 50 degrees. The change is so sudden and violent that travelers are frequently frozen to death before they can gain shelter.

It has occurred that farmers out looking after their flocks have been caught in one of these blizzards and, missing their way home, have lost their lives, their bodies remaining under the snow until the following spring. The suddenness of a Dakota blizzard is well known in the northwestern part of our country, but it is tardiness personified when compared with the rapidity with which a Russian winter storm comes on.

A Hasty Conclusion.

A former Princeton man now living in Philadelphia tells of his only unpleasant encounter with Jimmy McCosh as an illustration of the beloved old tutor's innate kindliness. When a student, he was lounging on his bed one afternoon, smoking. In response to a knock on the door he called out:

"Who's there?"

"It is I—Dr. McCosh," came the reply.

"You're a liar!" answered the student, thinking one of his chums was trying to joke with him. "If you were really Dr. McCosh, you'd simply say, 'It is I.'"

After a second's silence the student heard retreating steps, rushed to the door and looked out—to see Dr. McCosh himself scurrying down the corridor and around a corner in an endeavor to avoid recognition.—Philadelphia Times.

Napoleon's English Letter.

Napoleon began the study of English during his imprisonment in St. Helena. His instructor was Count Las Cases, to whom Napoleon wrote the only letter he is known ever to have written in English. It is somewhat of a literary curiosity and not well known, so it may be quoted here:

Count Las Cases—Since sixt week y learn the English and y do not any progress. Sixt week do fourty and two day. If might have learn fivty word, for day, I could know it two thousands and two hundred. It is in the dictionary more of fourty thousand; even he could most twenty; bot much of tems. For know it or hundred and twenty week, which do more two years. After this you will agree that the study one tongue is a great labor who it must do into the young aged.

A Bird That's Hard to Kill.

Penguins have an extraordinary amount of vitality and are harder to kill than any ordinary cat. I once had occasion to kill a large bird aboard our ship, the Southern Cross, and, making use of the weapon next my hand, I drove a large spike squarely through the creature's head and finished the operation by nailing it fast to the deck. That seemed to make the job very complete, and I went below decks for dinner. Coming up an hour later, my astonishment was prodigious on beholding the penguin, head erect, flippers out, waddling about, apparently without thought of the spike, which still remained transfixed in his cranium.—C. E. Borchgrevink in Leslie's.

The Aggravation of It.

"Whenever I'm inclined to lose my temper," said the philosophic man, "I just think to myself, 'Oh, there's no use getting mad!'"

"So do I," replied the excitable person, "and that makes me all the madder."—Exchange.

Meddle once signified "to concern oneself with." It is so used in the Scriptures, where the expression occurs, "Meddle with your own business."

Russia's Armies.

Russia has three different armies. In Europe her men are five years in the active army, thirteen in the reserve and five years in the second reserve. In Asia they are seven years in actual service and six in the reserve. In Caucasia they are only three in the active army and fifteen in the reserve.

Sun and Moon.

Children's views of many common phenomena are often very entertaining. A little girl five years old, asked what happened to the sun after it set, promptly replied: "It rolls itself up in a little ball, like a hedgehog. And that's the moon."—London Express.

The Abbot of Fools.

The abbot of fools, who was also known in different parts as the archbishop or bishop of fools, the abbot of misrule, the lord of misrule, the master of unreason and L'Abbe de Liesse, was the person who used to superintend the saturnalia, which were common in different parts of Europe from the fifth to the sixteenth century. The feast of fools was an imitation of the heathen saturnalia and, like this, was celebrated in December; hence the confusion of ideas which has arisen in mixing this feast with the ordinary Christmas revels. The chief celebration of the feast of fools fell upon Innocent's day, but the whole revels lasted from Christmas to the last day of Epiphany. The young people generally elected a leader, who went by one of the names quoted, and he was consecrated with many grotesque and ridiculous ceremonies.

England, Scotland, France and Germany all practiced these wild saturnalia, and it was with great difficulty that they were finally abolished. The abbot was not responsible for any trick or practical joke played on the rest of the community by his orders, and the victims had simply to "grin and bear it." In the temple (law headquarters, London) the office of the lord of misrule seems to have been a coveted one, for we read that it was only given to young men of good family.

Diplomacy.

"I always endeavor," said the matrimonial philosopher, "to take the wrong side of an inconsequential argument."

"With what object in view?" he was naturally asked.

"It gives my wife a chance to prove me wrong, and this so delights her that I find her generously tractable in all the more important matters."—Chicago Post.

His Room.

"Mr. Diggles," said the boy with big ruffles on his shoulders, "I wish you would let me come and see where you live. I want to look at your room."

"Why, certainly. But what made you think of that?"

"My sister said it was better than your company, so I thought it must be something fine."

THROUGH BUFFALO RUN VALLEY.

Waddle, Stormstown and Loveville and Then Across the Ridge.

Buffalo Run valley, as well as other sections of the county, presented a scene of agricultural activity last week. Ploughing, seeding topping corn and other occupations were in progress. L. H. Musser, the implement man, was at Snow Shoe when I called at his home, but his wife knew his tastes sufficiently well to order the REPUBLICAN. Benner Way was preparing to seed. It was just at noon when I arrived at the Fillmore post office, and as if to celebrate my arrival just at that time the post office there was abandoned and now all the residents have to go to Waddle or come to Bellefonte for their mail. This measure is not popular with any of the people except those who happen to have passes on the Bellefonte Central railroad. A store is needed there and a post office and store seem to go together. As people do not care to travel six miles every time they want a pound of coffee the post office and store will probably soon be reinstated. J. E. Clark, the renowned gardener, showed me some enormous onions which he had raised on his place and which will effectually put in the shade the huge California onions which sometimes flaunt their fragrance around here. In my opinion onions ought to be different from men. It is all right for big men to be strong, but with big onions the less strength the better.

J. W. Hartsock of Paradise was knocked down and tramped by a horse recently, passing through an experience which would have sent some men into another world, but J. W., when I saw him, was as lively as a deer and was actually running when I first saw him. But there was a large company of threshers there for the night and there was no room for another lodger unless he would go to sleep in the threshing machine, and for fear they might mistake me for a new species of wheat and convert me into the flower of the family I went further on to J. C. Hartsock's and had a delightful night. Next day I went to Scotia On the way there I added J. A. Stevens of Waddle, Walter Stine of Buffalo Run and E. T. Kellerman of Scotia to the list, they constituting three of a posse of four men then at work at a saw mill near Waddle station. Wish I could have been that successful everywhere. Mr. Hoy, the postmaster at Waddle, was obligingly delivering mail to Fillmore patrons of the office, but that was only a voluntary and temporary arrangement.

Arriving at Scotia, I added Harry Pennington, Thomas Roup, A. C. Markley, P. E. Hicks, D. H. Blair and Mrs. Mary Hicks to the list. I dined with J. W. Baisor, where I also saw John Burket of Pine Grove Mills. These gentlemen were deeply engrossed in business just then, working until 12 o'clock at night, as Mr. Baisor is taking account of stock preparatory to selling his store to the company now operating all the iron ore operations there. He has a large and valuable stock and the inventory probably extended into this week. Hereafter John Haugh will be the only competitor to the company store, but John is able to hold things level and if necessary go up ahead. I returned that night to J. W. Hartsock's home and the fried chicken on the table next morning was just the delicious dish I had been dreaming about for more than a year past.

Then my path led toward Stormstown. Wm. R. Biddle made me richer and so did M. J. Thompson, at whose home I met a valued friend—Miss Lizzie Hartsock. Irvin G. Gray was at home. He has had numerous triumphs on the turf with his famous mare, Sally Derby, and intended to start that day to Milton to engage in the races. Wm. R. Loner was the next gentleman to subscribe. E. B. Way took me into his creamery and exhibited the method of churning and separating the milk with his electric engine. At the same time he can operate the grindstone and the cornsheller with the same power. That night I reached what I believe is the busiest farm house in Centre county—that of John Wilson, near Loveville. They are lovely Christian people and though they had to rise at 2 o'clock the next morning several members of the family drove through the moonlight a mile to Centre Line M. E. church where Rev. Ohler of Warriorsmark is conducting a protracted meeting. He preached well to an edified audience. It was on the way home in the moonlight that we talked of the Indians who roamed through this region a century and a half ago, with their tomahawks cutting half moons on the tree trunks to mark the way they went. This gave Half Moon township its name. Further west the brave Indian warriors also made their marks, and it has ever since been known as Warriorsmark. At Mr. Wilson's home also they have a gasoline engine to operate their creamery. As I did not like to be idle while everybody else was hustling, I donned Newton Wilson's big apron and had my first experience coring apples for apple butter. While it was not done in expert style it was doubtless easier work than plowing.

Thursday morning I made the grand round of Loveville circle and added two names, including that of D. R. Thomas, to my list. Mr. T. intends to move to Elmira to conduct a hotel. I also added J. P. Eves, who lives here though his mail is brought over from the Port Matilda office.

When I came over the ridge the savory smell of chicken preparing for dinner at A. S. Price's residence attracted my notice and of course I stopped there. After that I came down the valley to the vicinity of Martha and came through what must have been largely a Democratic community, inasmuch as I failed to get a new subscriber until I reached G. W. Williams in the shadow of the Allegheny mountains, where also I saw C. F. Frantz, who was formerly a blacksmith at Paradise. He contracted appendicitis and was treated at the Bellefonte hospital. He is now nearly recovered and will doubtless soon go to work again. J. G. Stiver was secured on Friday; later Mrs. Ellen Groe and then my work stopped with only 20—not so many as the previous week.

NEWTON S. BAILEY.

A Scrap of History.

Mrs. A. V. Proctor, of DuBois tells the Searchlight that she lived along the West Branch of the Susquehanna river during the war and remembers the famous Bucktails when they went down that stream on rafts on their way to the war. When they passed the Proctor home the river was low and many of them were walking. They had a large flag on a rope stretched from the top of a tree to the house top and when those on foot came to the flag they stopped and gave three cheers for the stars and stripes. Col. Kane was riding horseback.

When the first recruits were sent out to fill up the ranks of the regiment they, too, went down that way on wagons. There was a bush meeting on when they passed along the road in the evening, and having a pig with them that they had captured at a farm above they were making it squeal as loud as possible. Thinking they would stop at a hotel a short distance below and get drunk and likely visit the meeting, the preacher cautioned every one present under no circumstances to say a cross word to them if they came or did any thing that would cause any trouble.

A tier of seats was reserved for them and the minister, Rev. Rothrock, of Lock Haven, had just commenced to preach when the Bucktails marched upon the ground and took seats. Instead of the trouble that was anticipated, at least one-half of the soldiers were converted, and among that number was a nephew of the preacher, whom he had not seen since he was a child. He made the discovery when taking the names of the converts. Mrs. Proctor says it was one of the greatest revival meetings she ever attended.

A Farewell Banquet.

After the regular meeting of the Bellefonte Lodge of Odd Fellows held in their hall in the Crider block Thursday evening the members gave a farewell banquet to one of their number, Thomas Moore, who on Saturday left for Philadelphia to assume a position in John Wanamaker's store.

There were just fifty-five present who sat down at the festive board to enjoy the bounteous repast prepared by the skilful hands of caterer Charles Harrison. The committee of arrangements was composed of Sigmund Joseph and John I. Olewine.

The affair was arranged in order to show the high esteem in which Mr. Moore is held not only by his fellow Odd Fellows but by the community in general. Mr. Moore has been an exemplary citizen and his loss will be greatly felt in the town.

After enjoying the feast to their hearts content, the toast master J. Will Conley called for speeches and about everyone present made short remarks expressing the appreciation of Mr Moore's good qualities as a citizen and regretting his departure from our midst.

At 11 o'clock the affair broke up everyone departing for their homes feeling that they had past a most pleasant evening.

I Advise Suffering Women Strongly, to Take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This advice comes from a woman who had suffered all the miseries women can suffer from disease, and had been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This great medicine for women establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Read Mrs. Kempson's letter and, if you are sick, follow her advice.

"Although it has been quite a time since I wrote you," says Mrs. Fred Kempson, of Cambria, Hillsdale Co., Mich., Box 57, "still your name is a blessing in our house, and I think it my duty to let you know that I am still enjoying good health, thanks to you and your 'Favorite Prescription.' When I think how I was five years ago, and then see how I am now, I say, God bless Dr. Pierce's works, and may he live long to help poor suffering women. I have never had any return of my weakness and am well and hearty. Can do all my own work without any pain. You saved me from the grave when all others failed. I advise suffering women strongly, to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as I know it will cure in all cases, if indeed there is a cure."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an excellent laxative, suited to the use of delicate women.

"Get Out, or Get in Line.

The following are extracts from Elbert Hubbard's book. "Get Out, or Get in Line."

If the concern where you are employed is all wrong, and the Old Man a curmudgeon, it may be well for you to go to the Old Man and confidentially, quietly and kindly tell him that his policy is absurd and preposterous. Then show him how to reform his ways and you might offer to take charge of the concern and cleanse it of its secret faults.

Do this, or if for any reason you should prefer not, then take your choice of these: Get out, or get in line. You have to do one or the other—now make your choice.

If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him.

If he pays you wages that supply you your bread and butter, work for him—speak well of him, think well of him, stand by the institution he represents.

I think if I worked for a man I would work for him. I would not work for him a part of the time, and the rest of the time work against him.

I would give an undivided service or none.

If put to the pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness.

You cannot help the Old Man so long as you are explaining in undertone and whisper, by gesture and suggestion, by thought and mental attitude, that he is a curmudgeon and his system dead wrong. You are not necessarily menacing him by stirring up discontent and warning envy into strife, but you are getting yourself upon a well-greased chute that will give you a quick ride down and out.

The Presbyterian Centennial Social.

The Chapel Thursday night contained a large assemblage of Presbyterians and friends of other denominations, who were there to take part and enjoy this great social event of that church.

It was entirely informal, and the greater part of the evening was taken up in conversation. The Ladies' Aid Society, that had it in charge, had arranged a short musical programme, which added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mrs. M. D. Burnet sang two beautiful solos, Miss Elsie Weaver also sang a solo. Mrs. Burnet being accompanied on the organ by Mrs. J. Malcolm Laurie. Will Van Tries and Russell Blair rendered some delightful music on the mandolin and guitar, and a quartette consisting of Mrs. Thomas R. Hayes, Mrs. J. C. Meyer, Henry Brown and J. Malcolm Laurie sang "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton", Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes played the accompaniments for Miss Weaver and the Quartette, after which refreshments consisting of cake, coffee and lemonade was served by a committee, consisting of Mrs. John L. Kurtz and Mrs. Sheffer.

Smallpox Closes School.

The recent outbreak of smallpox in DuBois has caused the postponement of the opening of the borough schools until after the middle of the month. The opening of the parochial schools in the First ward, in which district the smallpox cases exist, has been postponed indefinitely. The local board of health has directed that all residents of the town be vaccinated by September 12, after which time vaccination will be made compulsory.

BUSINESS MEN vs. LAWYER.

The Game at Hecla Park on Wednesday Was One Sided.

Quite a fair sized crowd journeyed to Hecla Park Wednesday afternoon to see the game of base ball between the Lawyers and the Business Men and although the game was rather one sided yet there was lots of good fun for spectators and players. To see Harry Keller run the bases was well worth the trip down and back.

The Coleville band was present and furnished music during the game and for dancing after supper. Cedars, the caterer was present and furnished a delightful supper to all that desired it.

The lawyers won the base ball game by the score of 24 to 6. On the side of the lawyers the battery work of Garbrick and Quigley and the base running of Edmund Blanchard were the special features while on the side of the Business Men Bert Taylor and Mac Laurie seemed to attract the most attention.

Only five innings were played. The nines lined up as follows:

| LAWYERS | | BUSINESS MEN |
|---|---|---|
| Quigley | catcher | L. McGinley |
| Garbrick | pitcher | G. Miller |
| E. Blanchard | short stop | C. Cruse |
| H. Keller | 1st base | S. Krumrine |
| F. Blanchard | 2nd base | W. C. Cassidy |
| Ed. Keichline | 3rd base | Bert Taylor |
| R. Valentine | right field | Ed. Harper |
| J. J. Bower | centre field | R. Montgomery |
| V. Royer | left field | Mac Laurie |

NOTES

Francis Speer of the Gazette was one of the hottest rooters for the Business Men. He became so excited that it was necessary for Catcher Quigley to suppress him by force on several different occasions.

Bert Taylor at the close of each inning explained to the boys on the bleachers just how it happened.

Charlie Cruse made a pretty good record for a has been. He made a couple of star catches at short stop that drew forth applause.

Will Cassidy caught everything that came his way at second base.

Presbyterian Picnic and Dedication of Marker.

The Presbytery of Huntingdon will meet in Centre Hall Monday October 6th, at 3:15 p. m. On Wednesday, the 8th, Presbytery will go to the site of the church where it held its first meeting April 14, 1795, to participate in exercises appropriate to the dedication of the marker recently erected there under its direction. This place is near Penn Hall, on the farm of David Musser. Rev. Joseph C. Kelly, of Williamsburg, and Judge James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, have been asked by Presbytery to make addresses.

It has been decided to take this opportunity to have a reunion of all Presbyterians within reach They were among the earliest settlers of the Valley and had much to do with shaping its history and it is very appropriate that their descendants should come together and hear something of their heroic efforts to found the church in this region. But it is not forgotten that along with them, engaged in the same noble work, were those of sister churches, and a most cordial invitation is extended to members of all churches, and others to unite with them.

Bring your baskets and spend what it is hoped will be a beautiful October day in the open air listening to the speeches and visiting with friends. If the weather should be unfavorable to an outdoor meeting the members of the Penns Creek Lutheran church have kindly offered the use of their near by house of worship. If it should be raining at the time of the leaving of the morning train (7:22 a. m.) the services will be held in the church at Centre Hall.—Centre Reporter.

A Parson's Noble Act.

"I want all the world to know," writes Rev. C. J. Budlong, of Ashaway, R. I., "what a thoroughly good and reliable medicine I found in Electric Bitters. They cured me of jaundice and liver troubles that had caused me great suffering for many years. For a genuine, all-around cure they excel anything I ever saw." Electric Bitters are the surprise of all for their wonderful work in liver, kidney and stomach troubles. Don't fail to try them. Only 50 cts. Satisfaction is guaranteed by Green's Pharmacy.

Barratt to Succeed Pennypacker

PHILADELPHIA, September 13.—Insurance Commissioner, Israel W. Durnham, after a day of conference with Mayor Ashbridge and their fellow leaders, announced that they had agreed upon Frst Assistant District Attorney Norris S. Barratt as the successor of Samuel W. Pennypacker, who resigned from the common pleas court to accept the republican nomination for governor. He will be appointed by Governor Stone to serve until January, and was nominated for the ten year term by Friday's republican convention. The special primaries to elect delegates to that convention was held Thursday evening.

A Boy's Wild Ride for Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, W. H. ### The Bellefonte Athletic Club Banquet.

The members of the Bellefonte Athletic Club held their third annual banquet Thursday evening at the Bush House. It excelled in every particular any previously held by that popular organization, the members being all present.

After having discussed the elaborate menu Robert Valentine took the position of toast master and introduced the following who responded to the toasts proposed, which were "Benefits of Club Life o Young Men" by Frank Curtin; "Bellefonte" Hugh Crider; "Princeton" James Furst; "Our Club" Randolph Hoy; "Athletics" Maurice Jackson; "The Centre County Fair" Harold Lingle; "The Goat" Lee Walker, and "The News paper Men of the Community" Ward Fleming.

In today's North American is given a picture of the members, each one of whom can be readily recognized. They are Randolph Hoy, Malcolm Mitchell, Fred Lane, Frank Curtin, Harold Lingle, Lewis Daggett, John Munson, Lee Walker, Robert Valentine, Maurice Jackson, James Furst, Phil Weaver, W. Furst, John VanPelt, Ed. Keichline, Guy McEntire, Ward Fleming and Lawrence Hoover.

They are of our best young men, and in a few years will be called upon to take leading places in the community, and it rests with them alone whether they will be worthy of the confidence and trust of their fellowmen.

Central Pennsylvania Division Formed Largest In Central Penna.

The Baptist church at Milesburg was crowded Wednesday night to hear the Sons of Temperance evangelist, Prof. Burton L. ### Death of Mrs. Emma McMullen.

The sad intelligence was received Friday of the death of Mrs. Emma McMullen, who departed this life at eight o'clock this morning at her home at Hecla Park, in the fifty-ninth year of her age. The immediate cause of her death being abcess of the stomach, from which she has been an uncomplaining sufferer for the past year.

Mrs. McMullen was born at Hecla Furnace, and resided there ever since, with the exception of a short time when she lived in Bellefonte. Her husband, Mr. Ambrose McMullen, preceded her to the grave about eighteen years ago. She was a lady well known in this town by many people, who held her in great esteem for the many excellent qualities she possessed. She is survived by one daughter, Lulu, and two sons, Lawrence and Ambrose. Her maiden name was Emma Johnston and was the sister of Mr. Joel Johnston of our town. The following brothers are still living: Daniel, of State College; Curtis, of Lock Haven; Peter, of Milton; Wilbur, of Illinois and Joel Johnston.

The funeral took place Monday morning from St. John's Catholic Church on Bishop street. The services were in charge of Rev. McArdle, during which Mrs. Lena Brown who has a beautiful soprano voice, sang, "After Toiling Cometh Rest." The casket bearers were Messrs. Joseph Ceaders, William Kelley, Milton Johnson and Curtis Johnson. Interment in the Catholic cemetery on Bishop street.

THE FRIEND OF LABOR

That is What the Republican Party Has Shown Itself.

LABOR LAWS OF FORTY YEARS

Sewing Women, Miners, Motormen, Slate Pickers, Children, All Classes of Bread Winners, Are Protected By Laws Passed By Republican Legislatures.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—One of the most important features of the present campaign will be a showing of the part that the Republican party has played in the life of the workingman of Pennsylvania. It is a marvelous showing.

The present reign of prosperity, shared alike by every toiler, whether it be in mill, forge, factory or on the farm, can be traced to the wise and beneficent working of national laws enacted alike for the protection of labor and capital. The Republican party in the nation has ever been the staunch friend of the workingman. The Republican party in the state has emphasized this by enacting laws covering a period of 35 years, for the comfort, convenience and protection of the working man and woman. There has been compiled within the past week a complete list of labor laws passed in Pennsylvania by Republican legislatures since the close of the Civil War that is one of the most remarkable things of its kind in existence.

Pennsylvania leads every state in the character of its labor legislation. Nearly 100 bills directly affecting the men, women and children of the state who earn their living by the sweat of their brows have been enacted in the past 35 years.

WOMAN AND THE SEWING MACHINE.

At the close of the Civil War industrial and commercial enterprises were in a more or less chaotic state. Thousands of widows, mothers and daughters of soldiers were compelled to eek out a living as seamstresses and dressmakers. One of the first laws passed by the legislature of 1869 was an act to exempt sewing machines belonging to seamstresses from levy and sale on execution or distress for rent.

At this time the great anthracite coal regions of the state were just beginning their period of development. There were practically no laws looking to the protection of human life in the mines, and it was a Republican legislature that took up this subject at this time, and during all of the succeeding years has passed laws whose object has been the protection of life and limb of the toilers in the darkness of the mine.

On page 852 of the pamphlet laws of 1869 will be found one of the first mining laws enacted, entitled "An Act for the Better Regulation and Ventilation of Mines, and for the Protection of the Lives of Miners in Schuylkill County."

This was only the beginning. It was followed by a general law for the safety and health of persons employed in coal mines, passed in 1870. In the same year laws were passed for the protection of miners in various counties of the state.

In 1872 an act for the better protection of the wages of mechanics, miners, laborers and others was passed, as well as a bill providing "For the Establishment of a Bureau of Statistics on the Subject of Labor and for Other Purposes." (P. L. 1872, page 59.)

In all the years up to the present there have been numerous similar enactments. In 1872 one of the most important measures ever enacted into a law, the record of which can be found in the pamphlet laws for 1872, on page 1,175, was the act to relieve laborers, workingmen and journeymen from certain prosecutions and indictments for conspiracy under the criminal laws of the commonwealth. This act has conserved the liberty of thousands of wage earners in Pennsylvania in the past 30 years.

PROTECTING BREAD-WINNERS.

It was the Republican party in the legislative session of 1874 that passed a law in relation to suits for wages, preventing stay of execution on judgments obtained for $100 or less.

It was a Republican legislature that appropriated the first money to aid in the erection and maintenance of an anthracite hospital in Pennsylvania. This was in 1874.

England, with all its boasted civilization of centuries, is away behind Pennsylvania in the protection of women and children in their employment. South Carolina today is a blot on the map of the south because of its absence of laws prohibiting the employment of children, and its lax legislation regarding the employment of women in various industries. In 1878 one of the most stringent laws enacted by any legislature related to the employment of females in hotels, taverns, saloons and eating houses or other places for the sale of intoxicating and other drinks. It was a Pennsylvania Republican legislature that passed a law prohibiting female labor in and about the coal mines and manufactories thereof, and for the preservation of the health of female employes in manufacturing, mechanical and mercantile establishments.

All through the years in which the Republican party has been in power in Pennsylvania it has endeavored to see that full and ample justice has been done by employers, whether firms, corporations or individuals, to the citizens of the state in their employ. It was at the session of 1878 that a law was passed fixing the standard weight of a bushel of bituminous coal. It was during the session of 1881 that the law was passed securing to operatives and laborers engaged in and about coal mines, manufactories of iron and steel and all other manufactories, the payment of their wages at regular intervals and in lawful money of the United States.

REGULAR PAY DAYS.

This is one of the most important laws ever enacted. Middle-aged men today remember the conditions that existed prior to the passage of this act. Employes, often of large concerns, were frequently deprived of their earnings for from 30 to 60 days; often only paid in part and frequently with script, store orders or other alleged equivalents of value. The passage of this law made compulsory the payment to every employe, every working man and woman, the wages due him or her in lawful money of the country and at stated intervals.

Every field of labor has been covered by Republican laws enacted by Republican legislatures. The law limiting the hours of labor of conductors, drivers and employes of horse, cable and electric railways, was passed by the legislature of 1887. The legislature of that year struck the final blow at child labor in this state by prohibiting the employment of any child under the age of 12 years by any individual, firm or company, to do any work in any mill, manufactory or mine, or any work pertaining thereto.

Going a step beyond the mere enactment of laws protecting coal miners, the assembly of 1889 enacted the law compelling the examination of miners in the anthracite region for the purpose of preventing the employment of incompetent persons in those mines.

The factory law of the state which regulates the employment and provided for the safety of women and children in mercantile industries and manufacturing establishments, and to provide for the appointment of inspectors to enforce this law, became operative through the action of the legislature of 1889.

ALL CLASSES PROTECTED.

So the long line of beneficial laws might be continued. The toiler in the tenement house, the woman in the store, the mechanic at the bench, the young woman at the cigar table, the worker in the mine, the puddler in the mill, all enjoy whatever of comfort, convenience and protection they have to the wisdom of Republican legislators and the efforts of Republican statesmen.

It is understood that one of the battle cries of the Democracy this fall is to be the declaration that the Republican party has done little or nothing for the working man. It is false, wretchedly false, as the Pamphlet Laws of Pennsylvania demonstrate in all the publications from 1865 to 1902.

THE LEAGUE OF CLUBS

The Convention at Erie This Week and Some of Its Novel Features.

The State League of Republican Clubs, which is holding its annual convention in Erie this week, is one of the most unusual gatherings of its kind ever assembled within the borders of the state. The attendance is larger, as indicated by the number of special trains engaged than ever before in the history of the league. The enthusiasm is greater because of the novelties that have been introduced into the campaign.

Perhaps the most striking of these is a great ball marked with Pennsylvania's record of Republican patriotism and carrying the pictures of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, Judge Pennypacker and the Republican candidates of this year, which is being taken to Erie on a special car and from there is to be rolled backwards across the state to Philadelphia. The idea, which was evolved from the fertile brain of a couple of Philadelphia Republicans, Joseph M. Huston and J. Hampton Moore, city treasurer of Philadelphia, is that at the border of each county a number of Republicans representing that county shall take the ball in charge, roll it along the highways to the borders of the adjoining county, where it will in turn pass into other hands, and so on through the state.

It is expected that this novel spectacle will attract thousands to the line of the ball's progress and excite universal enthusiasm among the Republicans of the state.

Read This, Republicans.

This contest is no mere local affair. It is national in its scope. A victory for Democracy in Pennsylvania would send a shiver along the spinal column of the Republican party of the United States. Twice has Mr. Pattison been elected governor, and twice, at the succeeding national elections, has a Democrat occupied the White House. We all remember with what dire results the last Cleveland administration was accompanied. We had the soup house where those who were turned from the doors of the closed mills were driven for food. The Inquirer opened distributing depots for bread, and for weeks — yes, for months—the distribution continued. This was what the folly of the people in electing a Democratic president made necessary.

Could we look with confidence to a continuation of prosperity under a new Democratic administration? By no means. One experience of that dismal sort is enough. Then why invite disaster by turning Pennsylvania over to the Democrats and sending a chill throughout the Union?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

REPUBLICAN DAY AT GRANGE PARK.

The republican gubernatorial campaign was formally opened at the Grangers' picnic Centre Hall, Tuesday, when addresses were made by Candidate Samuel W. Pennypacker, United States Senator Boies Penrose, Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith and ex-Governor Daniel H. Hastings.

The enthusiasm of the Republicans of Centre County for the candidate was manifested first at daybreak when the train on which Judge Pennypacker, Senator Penrose and Mr. Smith traveled was intercepted at Coburn by a reception committee composed of representatives of the grange and the Republican county organization, who escorted the visitors to the picnic grounds. Representing the Grange were: Leonard Rhone, Colonel James F. Weaver, Captain George Boal, George Dale, D. M. Campbell, C. K. Boter and H. M. Cutshall. Former Governor Hastings headed the committee from the Center Republican organization, the others being: Colonel Wilbur F. Reeder, W. L. Malin, John Hamilton, W. E. Gray, Colonel Austin Curtin, G. W. Rees, W. I. Fleming, Colonel W. F. Reynolds, J. N. Schoonover, H. H. Hewitt, John Gowland, C. F. Fryberger, John Knisely, C. L. Gramley, M. M. Musser and J. Spiglemyer.

The party received an enthusiastic greeting at the Grange Picnic grounds, and after breakfast Judge Pennypacker, Senator Penrose and ex-Postmaster General Smith were escorted to the Republican tent, where they held a reception several hours. Later they visited the exhibits of the Centre County farmers, and Judge Pennypacker appeared to take a lively interest in the products inquiring of many of the farmers regarding the soil of the county and the average yield per acre of wheat, oats, and other food stuffs.

The big meeting was held in the afternoon, beginning at half-past 1 o'clock. An hour earlier the auditorium was crowded to the doors and over 1000 people listened outside. George Dale, master of the Centre Grange, called the meeting to order and introduced ex-Governor Hastings as the presiding officer.

Despite a cold, which interferred with his voice, General Hastings made a brief address in which he paid tribute to the worth of Judge Pennypacker. His reference to the fact that the Judge's ancestors played an important part in the history of the country provoked applause, which was renewed a few moments later when he said:—

"There never was a war for our flag that his ancestors did not bear an honored part. They figured in the Colonial wars, in the Revolutionary Wars and in the War of the Rebellion there were two generals five colonels and 146 other relatives of our candidate for Governor by the name of Pennypacker."

When Judge Pennypacker, is response to the introduction of General Hastings, arose to respond he was accorded a hearty reception. He was interrupted by applause frequently, and cheered when he closed General Hastings insisted that the Judge made another speech, using the German language, and when the audience manifested a disposition to help the chairman enforce his demand, Judge Pennypacker provoked a good natured laugh at the expense of the ex-Governor by saying: "There is always somebody in every audience who wants a little too much."

Senator Penrose, who was next introduced, spoke of the prosperity of the state and the country and said that the farmer in the last five years received a greater share of prosperity than any representative of any other occupation.

Ex-Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith made a stirring address on the "Three issues."

Addresses were also made by Congressional Candidate S. R. Dresser and State Senatorial Candidate A. E. Patton, after which the governational party left for Lock Haven.

THE OFFICE OF SHERIFF.

There are a great many voters in Centre County who are not personally acquainted with the republican and democratic candidates for sheriff, both of whom are citizens of Bellefonte, and well known to the writer.

Capt. Hugh S. Taylor is one of the leading lawyers of the Centre County bar, with a large and lucrative practice, he is now, and has been for the past nine years tax collector for the Borough of Bellefonte, from which he derives an income of about $1500 per year. He is also superintendent of the Bellefonte Gas and Steam Heat Company from which he receives a large compensation, and is at the present time negotiating for a lease of this immense plant, which in our mind would be a very profitable business venture.

Although we are opposed to Capt. Taylor's candidacy we cannot say one word reflecting upon his character as a man. He is worthy of all the confidence that has been reposed in him, and as an attorney and business man has the confidence of all.

Henry Lowry is not a lawyer, he is only a carpenter who earns his bread by his daily toil, but a man of more than ordinary intelligence, and in his trade, as carpenter, is the equal of any in the country. He is sober, industrious and is looked upon in Bellefonte, where he is know, as one of our best and most respected citizens. It is true he does not have a large amount of this world's goods, but notwithstanding this, is raising a family and giving them every comfort and advantage that he can afford, and if elected to the office he is in every way qualified to discharge its duties in such a manner that none will regret having voted for him.

From time immemorial the office of sheriff has belonged to and been occupied by the common people, and previous to this no lawyer ever attempted to take it from them, and if Captain Taylor is elected this position will hereafter be claimed by the members of the bar, just as is the office of District Attorney. It would be a dangerous precedent to establish, and we feel confident it will not be. The commonality will not permit any lawyer to usurp this position and allow themselves to be shoved aside and deprived of their acknowledged rights.

If Captain Taylor were to be successful, how long will it be till every office in the Court House would be filled by an attorney. The common herd are good enough to vote, but the offices would belong to the legal profession.

OUR COUNTY TREASURER.

The Democratic Watchman of last week states "the order has gone out that Foster must be elected treasurer because the County funds are wanted in the Hastings Bank." We know nothing about whether such an order has been issued, or who could issue this ultimatum, but we do know that it has been decreed that Foster will be our, next County Treasurer, and where he will keep his funds we know not, neither do we care.

As for Jackson, Hastings & Co.'s Bank being the depository for County funds it is to be assumed this firm would be willing to have his account kept with them, and in fact any bank in town would be glad for the business, but the only thing the tax payers are interested in, is that the County's money is placed with a solvent institution.

Our present treasurer keeps his account with the above mentioned Banking Company, and other county treasurers have done the same, and some of our most prominent business men and capitalists transact their business at this bank, and unless we are greatly mistaken Senator Meek, himself, has dealings, and keeps the largest part of his account there.

This bank, like all others, is in business for the accommodation of the people and pecuniary profit to themselves. Just as Brother Meek is conducting his newspaper. His object is to enlighten the people and at the same time benefit himself, particularly the latter, for the distinguished senator has never been known to do anything that would not ennure to his benefit. He has an eye single to honorable Meek's interests. Two years ago he spent the entire winter at Harrisburg assisting in passing the iniquitous "Ripper Bill," all of which he did for a consideration, and this Fall he is at democratic headquarters drawing a large salary for services rendered, and the fact cannot be denied that he makes more money out of politics than any man in Centre County, and it comes with a bad grace from him to impugn the motive of any one whose sentiment may differ from his.

DIFFERENT METHODS EMPLOYED.

Our citizens have no doubt observed Posters stuck up in various portions of the town calling for bids to build a stone wall along water street, and giving specifications as to the character of the work to be done. This is the proper course for any Committee of Council to pursue, at least when any improvement costing a large amount of money is to be made, and it is the only business way of transacting the affairs of the Borough. People then have an opportunity of knowing what is being done, and it invites competition, thereby insuring the best work at a fair price, and there is but little hope of any Councilman receiving pecuniary benefit.

The Street Committee have recently built two crossing which were badly needed, but did not attempt to do so until directed by Council.

How different from the arrogance, audacity and stupidity of the Water Committee. They have gone to vast expense within the last few months in their department, without any authority whatever. They do not ask permission or deign to tell what their plans are, but simply, in the most arbitrary manner, carry out their own ideas. They made a contract to enlarge the reservoir without advertising for bids, or without direction of the Council. They bought a pump and placed it into position, on their own responsibility, and although it has been utterly worthless, not a member of that Committee would unbend himself enough, to report the fact to Council. We understand they have bought another pump and wheel, and there is not one word on the records of Council to show why they did so, or what authority they had to make the purchase.

We have in town a large Foundry and Machine Shops, paying taxes to the Borough and an institution giving employment to a great many men, but this Committee ignored our home industry, going to a distance to secure the machinery. This is in perfect accord with their policy to strangle the life out of every institution in town employing labor, and in fact, people would have been surprised if they had done otherwise than go abroad to make this purchase.

Mighty men of business! J. Perpont Morgan sinks into insignificance in comparison, and Carnegie in his palmiest days did not have half the business sagacity of this aggregation and we venture the assertion that at the next meeting of Council they will not report to that body anything on the subject.

These broad minded men should explain to the people, how we have been defrauded during the last four months by there having torn out the old pump, which was furnishing 120 gallons a minute with no expense. By this childish move on their part, our taxpayers are out from 750 to $1000.

No wonder the Borough of Bellefonte is hopelessly in debt, with its liabilities increasing every month, when such business is permitted to continue without even a protest from any member of that body, who are supposed to look after the taxpayers interests and every man of them, with his right hand lifted toward Heaven, and with his God as a witness took a solemn oath to discharge the duties of the office with fidelity. They must have a fine conception of what fidelity stands for.

Gretna and Cumberland.

Theodore P. Ryndor, of Erie, chairman of the State Committee People's party, also candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs, attended the Grange meetings to feel the political pulse. During his stay he was the guest of Mr. E. T. Tuten. It is doubtful if the People's Party ticket will appear on the official ballot this year on account of the great labor and expense of getting out nomination papers.

Mr. Geo. T. Rowland of Philadelphia spent a few hours in town Thursday, having important business with Edmund Blanchard Esq. Mr. Rowland is connected with the financial house of Battles Heye and Harrison of New York and Philadelphia also with the C. B. Nichols Westmoreland Coal Co. He was accompanied by Mr. C. B. Nichols also of the Quaker City. We found them both to be pleasant and agreeable gentlemen.

Treasury Rulings of Interest to Many.

Five important rulings have been made by the treasury department in Washington. They effect manufacturers of cigars and snuff, cigarette dealers, banks, importers of amber and statuary.

Commissioner Yerkes has ruled that pieces of amber, varying in length from one and one half to six inches, not further manufactured than cut into pieces and sawed and smoothed on one side for purposes of testing the quality, and which are intended to be used for the manufacture of cigar holders and mouth pieces for pipes, are free of duty as manufactured amber.

In reference to claims made by banks for exemption from special tax liability reckoned on undivided profits, the department rules that in the returns made banks there may be deducted from undivided profits any amount necessary to pay dividends that have actually been declared and also any reasonable sum for contingent expenses. No deduction is allowable for any sum or "prospective losses."

Tobacco manufacturers may place within cigar boxes or snuff packages advertising cards, coupons or certificates which do not materially increase the weight or size of the packages, and which are intended only as an advertisement of business, or concerning the sale of snuff or cigars. Coupons of advertising cards may indicate to dealers or consumers that same may be returned and exchanged for other articles or gifts, the distribution of which does not depend upon the event of a lottery.

Tax may be paid upon cigarettes according to their wholesale value or price. If they are sold by manufacturers at $2 or less per thousand, properly stamped, the collector may sell stamps at rate of 54 cents per thousand.

Regarding the importation of statuary of marble or alabaster from Italy. Commissioner Yeakes rules that statues cut or carved from solid blocks of marble, stone or alabaster, or wrought from metal that are the works of professional sculptors, are entitled to entry free of duty. In that class are included marble and alabaster groups, figures and bas reliefs intended for memorial or cemetery work.

THE UNION PARTY ROW

Attempt of Democracy to Steal the Party Opens Eyes of the People.

If ever the so-called Union Party had any standing before the people of Pennsylvania it was irrevocably lost by the bare-faced attempt of the Democrats, with Democratic money in its pocket and black-jacks and ax-handles in its hands, to capture the party at its Philadelphia convention.

That this political hybrid is dead is shown by the action of the principal men in its councils to organize another party called the "Ballot Reform Party." Papers have been filed with this object in view. The same men who helped the Democracy in its attempt to capture the Union Party convention have signed their names to the papers of the "Ballot Reform Party."

On this subject the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette has this to say about the Union Party and its rowdy Democratic members:

"The riotous proceedings of the Union Party gathering at Philadelphia are a commentary on the present lack of unity of an eastern sentiment that plasters itself with large reform labels. Riotous doings in political gatherings are never to be commended, but the disorder in this case is a useful straw showing that real reform can't be headed off by machine workers wearing a reform mask. The Union Party as an organization was financed a year ago from the same barrel that supplied the back-bone for the Democratic ticket. The net result of the operation was to wreck the Philadelphia Democratic organization."

"Undeterred by this boomerang, the same financial power this year again undertook to control the real as well as make-believe reform sentiment embraced in the Union organization. Hence there is a Union split that promises to make business for the courts and the lawyers. The first round ends in a knock down, figuratively and literally, of the Democratic barrel faction. It is probably at the same time the beginning of the end of the Union Party.

"Whatever may happen to the Union factions in their contest in the courts, the differences revealed furnish proof that the tide of public sentiment runs strongly in the direction of a largely increased Republican majority as compared with last year."

Quay, Penrose and the Ticket.

Senators Quay and Penrose have an earnest sympathy for the men of the anthracite region. It was this fact, coupled with the receipt of nearly two thousand letter by the United States senators, that led them to visit President Baer, of the Reading Railroad, in the hope of bringing the trouble to a speedy termination. Thus far all efforts have failed. Governor Stone took up the matter, but he, too, has failed to bring about any change in existing conditions. Miners and operators seem determined to grant no concessions and the settlement of the strike now seems a long way off.

A Composer.

Hoax—I thought you said that man was a musician?

Joax—Nonsense!

"You certainly told me he wrote melodies."

"I told you he was a composer of heirs. He sells soothing syrup."

A Bet and Its Odds.

A notorious gambler, who died some time ago, once wagered a thousand dollars to one that six would not be thrown with a pair of dice ten times in succession. His offer was taken up by a fellow clubman. The dice were brought, and his opponent actually threw six nine times in succession. The gambler then offered $470 to be free of the bet. The other man declined, had his tenth throw and failed to get another six.

Just to show how very little the average man knows about the doctrine of chances a well known mathematician has pointed out the real odds about this bet. The chances were no less than 60,466,175 to 1 against six being thrown ten times in succession; therefore the real bet should have been about $600,000 to 1 cent against such a thing happening.—Pittsburg Gazette.

A Drawback.

"Well, James, how are you feeling today?" said the minister to one of his parishioners, an old man suffering from chronic rheumatism. "You are not looking as brisk as usual."

"Na, sir," replied the old fellow sadly. "I've been gey unfortinit the day."

"How, James?"

"Weel, sir, I got a letter fra a Glasca lawyer body this mornin' tellin' me that ma cousin Jock was deid an' that he had left me twa hunner poun'."

"Two hundred pounds!" repeated the minister. "And you call that hard luck? Why, it is quite a fortune for you, James."

"Aye," said the old man sorrowfully, "but the stipid lawyer body didna ptt eneuch stamps on his letter, an' I had a hale saxpence to pey for extra postage."—London Tit-Bits.

Sand Swept Asia.

In the arid lands of central Asia the air is reported as often laden with fine detritus, which drifts like snow around conspicuous objects and tends to bury them in a dust drift. Even when there is no apparent wind the air is described as thick with fine dust, and a yellow sediment covers everything. In Khotan this dust sometimes so obscures the sun that at midday one cannot see to read fine print without a lamp.

IT MUST BE TRUE.

Bellefonte Readers Must Come to that Conclusion.

One isolated case in Bellefonte might be due to accident, two or three might be imagination on the part of the endorsers, but a score or two indisputably proves that there is at least within the reach of all one remedy which keeps its promises—that remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this:

Mr. Geo. Gross, of Water Street, says:—"In the summer of 1895, I used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache procuring them from the Bush Block Drug Store. Accompanying the pains in my back was an annoyance from the kidney secretions. Doen's Kidney Pills cured me after I had been troubled for years. I thought I was going to have backache again, but two years afterward I went fishing, got soaked through and this ended in affecting my back. I again restored my old cure, Doan's Kidney Pills, and they did me good immediately, although in the meantime I had taken other remedies but without obtaining relief. I can as conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills now as I did formerly for backache or kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section ten of article one of the Constitution, so that a discharge of a jury for failure to agree or other necessary cause shall not work an acquittal.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following be proposed as an amendment to the Constitution; that is to say, that section ten of article one, which reads as follows:

"No person shall, for any indictable offense be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger, or by leave of the court for oppression or misdemeanor in office. No person shall, for the same offense, be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall private property be taken or applied to public use, without authority of law and without just compensation being first made or secured." be amended so as to read as follows:

No person shall, for any indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger, or by leave of the court for oppression or misdemeanor in office. No person shall, for the same offense, be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; but a discharge of the jury for failure to agree, or other necessary cause, shall not work an acquittal. Nor shall private property be taken or applied to public use, without authority of law and without just compensation being first made or secured.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, that the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

Amendment.

Add at the end of section seven, article three, the following words: "Unless before it shall be introduced in the General Assembly, such proposed special or local law shall have been first submitted to a popular vote, at a general or special election in the locality or localities to be affected by its operation, under an order of the court of common pleas of the respective county after hearing and application granted, and shall have been approved by a majority of the voters at such election: Provided, That no such election shall be held until the decree of court authorizing the same shall have been advertised for at least thirty (30) days in the locality or localities affected, in such manner as the court may direct.

Additional Locals.

—The Potter—Hoy Hardware Co. are placing a new metal roof on the Brant House.

—Miss Daisy Smith an accomplished pianist has accepted a position in M. C. Gepharts music store.

—We are sorry to hear of the serious illness of Miss Jessie Etters daughter of Prof. and Mrs. D. O. Etters.

—Jessie Derstine, had the misfortune of falling off a bicycle and breaking a small bone near the wrist in his right arm

—The repairs and improvements to the new Masonic Building in town are progressing rapidly, and when completed will be admirably adapted for the use intended.

—Irvin G. Gray, the well known Stormstown horseman, has the following horses entered for Blair county fair this week: Richard A., 2:10½; Sallie Derby, 2.19, and Luella McC., 2.21.

—Harry Harro, of East Lamb street, who is employed at the Nittany Furnace was brought home Thursday morning with a badly burned face caused by an explosion of gas. A doctor was called to relieve his suffering.

—George R. Meek had a peculiar experience a few nights since, He was calling on some friends and when it was time to leave he was prevailed upon to stay all night. He wished afterwards that he had taken his mackintosh and come home in the rain.

—At a meeting of the Milesburg School Board Thursday evening Miss Madge Orris, of Central City, was elected teacher of the intermediate school, in room of Miss Nina McCloskey, who resigned to accept a position as teacher of the Grammar school in Patton.

—Linn McGinley and Harry Williams have painted a large and handsome sign on the Bellefonte Electric Company's building. It is rumored that Capt. Hugh S. Taylor is about to lease the Steam Heat and Gas Works. If he does so it will insure first class service to the patrons.

—Mrs. Jane C. Brooks, of Pleasant Gap, celebrated in a quiet manner Thursday the 79th anniversary of her birth. Quite a number of her children and friends called on her during the day and evening and passed the time most pleasantly with the aged lady. It is to be hoped that she may live to see many more happy returns of the day. She is the widow of the late Richardson Brooks.

—The Board of Health has quarantined the residence of Mrs. Emma P. Wilson, on East High street, opposite the Jail owing to her little son Wilmer, being afflicted with scarlet fever. Two much care can not be taken to prevent the spread of this disease for this is not the only case in town, and we think the Board of Health should be on the alert particularly at this season of the year or it may become epidemic.

—Editor T. H. Harter of the Gazette has received a request from Chairman Quay of the Republican state committee to furnish Pennsylvania Dutch editorial squibs for the state committee to send out in plate to the Republican papers throughout Pennsylvania in districts where German is spoken. This is quite an honor to Mr. Harter and came to him no doubt through his "Bonnestiel" letters which are widely read thoughout the state.

—Mr. and Mrs. Morris Furey entertained a number of their friends Thursday for supper, at their beautiful home near Bellefonte. All that appetite could desire was set before them and served with lavish hospitality, and we know the guests enjoyed and appreciated their entertainment. They were assisted in entertaining by their daughter, Miss Margaret, a young lady of culture and refinement whose home is in Pittsburg, but who spends a few weeks each year with the "old folks at home."

—There is on exhibition in one of the windows of Blair's Jewelry Store a magnificent portrait of our townsman Hon. James A. Beaver. This picture was executed by Messrs. Antrim and Landsy, portrait artists of Philadelphia, and is intended as a gift to State College, the doner being Gilbert White, at one time a student of that Institution. Mr. White has also had painted a portrait of his father, which will be presented to the College at the same time. These pictures are rare works of art, and none but artists of the first class could have produced such results. We understand that Mr. Antrim, who is in town, has procured several orders from some of our prominent citizens.

—J. B. Royer, of near Centre Hall, was a recent caller at the Reporter office in that town, when he exhibited a copper cent bearing the date of 1801, which was plowed up on the Royer homestead, east of Centre Hall. John W. Royer, deceased, father of J. B. Royer, unearthed a silver watch of old English pattern, and Daniel Shreffler, who owned the farm before it came into possession of the Royers, plowed up $49 in silver coins of various denominations. Supposition is that Conley and Richard, the noted highway robbers in the early history of Penn's Valley, on one of their trips from Bald Eagle via Logan's Gap and Potter's Mill to Mifflin county secreted fifty dollars somewhere on the Royer farm, and that the $49.01 are a part of it.—Tyrone Herald.

Centre County Fair.

Death of Mrs. J. H. Shuey.

We have just received word of the death of Mrs. Annie, wife of Mr. J. H. Shuey, which occurred at three o'clock Friday afternoon at her home in Lemont, her age being 32 years.

Mrs. Shuey had been ill about a week, and her death was unexpected. The deceased was an earnest Christian woman, a member of the Reformed church, a devoted wife and mother and a kind neighbor. Her maiden name was Annie Grenoble, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grenoble. She is survived by her husband and five children, the youngest being but one week old. She also leaves three brothers and one sister to mourn her loss. The funeral took place on Monday morning at nine o'clock. Interment at Pine Hall.

Pretty Wedding.

Miss M. Elizabeth Bible and Daniel C. Roseman were married at the home of the bride at Centre Hill, Wednesday afternoon, at 2;30 o'clock. The groom approached the officiating minister, Rev T. W. Haven, in company with Mrs. J. Frank Bible, as matron of honor, and the bride on the arm of her brother J. Frank Bible, and by the ring ceremony the two were pronounced one. The march for the occasion was performed by Mrs. Thos. L. Moore. The fifty guests who witnessed the ceremony congratulated the couple most heartily, beneath the decorations at the wedding altar, and then partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bible, and the groom is a son of Calvin Roseman, of York, and is engaged with the Martin Carriage Works at that place. The couple will make York their future home, and take with them the best wishes of a host of friends.

—We extend our heart felt sympathy to Harry C. Valentine in his tripple affliction, for we have just learned that he is suffering from that aristocratic, though unpleasant malady, called hay fever. In addition to this he has a visitation of that delightful ailment called asthma. These would be almost enough to try the patience and christian grace of any mortal, but as Harry always was a record breaker he determined this year to enter in the first class, and accordingly contracted that juvenile disease whooping cough. He has undertaken a big contract, but we have no doubt he will demonstrate his ability to cope successfully against this tripple alliance. We expect to keep out of his reach for some time or would have made no mention of the above facts.

COLOMBIA AND HAYTI

Progress of the Revolution in the First-Named Republic.

PLENTY OF FIGHTING GOING ON

Two Thousand Government Troops Were Compelled to Surrender to Force of Numbers.

MUCH ACTIVITY ON THE ISTHMUS

Washington, September 11.—The navy department is in receipt of the following cablegram, dated Panama, from Commander Potter, of the United States Steamship Ranger:

"Two thousand men surrendered to the revolutionists at Agua Dulce, Colombia. Revolutionists reported advancing near Panama, Colombia."

Kingston, Jamaica, September 11.—The German steamer Valencia arrived here yesterday from Santa Martha, capital of the department of Magdalena, Colombia, and reported that desperate fighting occurred there from Friday to Monday last. One hundred government troops were killed, the railroad was completely demolished and terrible atrocities were committed. The Valencia had to leave Santa Martha without cargo.

The British steamer William Cliff, which reached this port yesterday from Colon, Colombia, reported considera le activity on both sides of the isthmus and announced that the rebels had already occupied Culebra and were advancing in strength.

Washington, September 11.—Commander Henry McCrea, whose admirable handling of affairs at Bocas del Toro and in Hayti, brought forth warm praise not only from American officials, but also from the German government, has arrived in Washington, and was closeted with Secretary Moody for some time after the department had closed for the day, for the purpose of giving the secretary the benefit of his close personal observation of the state of affairs in the turbulent little countries in the south, and of making suggestions as to the best means of meeting future emergencies in those quarters.

Commander McCrea expressed the opinion that the destruction of the revolutionary war vessel simplifies matters, as it reduces the struggle to a military status solely. The commander expressed serious doubts as to the accuracy of the statement that Admiral Killick went down with his ship. His vessel was in a locality favorable to the Firminist party, and Mr. McCrea thinks the admiral in all probability escaped ashore and is now safe.

Robbers at Lewisburg.

Lewisburg, Sept. 10.—A bold hold-up took place on West Market street, in this place, on Sunday evening, directly under the glare of an electric street lamp. A young man was seized by four strangers, his hands and mouth held, and he was relieved of a new gold watch. The fellows then escaped.

Andrew Nogel, a young man aged about seventeen years, whose home is on West Market street, was hurrying home after having attended church, between 10 and 11 o'clock. He had reached a point on Market street east of the Cameron House, and almost in the heart of Lewisburg, when suddenly four men sprang upon him. Before he could realize what was happening they had seized him, holding him by the legs and arms, and having a hand firmly on his mouth. One of them then quickly went through his pockets. He had but little money on his person—a few dimes—and these they did not take. They did get away with a fine new gold watch, which had just been given him as a birthday present.

The young man was of course very much frightened, but he got a good look at his assailants, and thinks that he can identify all of them. Detective Lewis Newman has been on their track since the robbery. The same fellows also held up James Young, of the West ward, but did not get anything of value.

A Mild Winter Predicted.

Here's the prediction that will fall on the ears of the man whose coal bin is still empty like the choice music. Prof. C. E Meyers, of the government weather department, says the summer seasons will be prolonged until late in the fall. He also predicts a mild winter. His theory is that the volume of water which has fallen during May, June, and July cannot be evaporated from the earth during the summer and that the water in the earth will hold the summer heat far into the winter.

The College of Music at Freeburg, Pa., is in session with the largest attendance of any previous Summer term, and to continue without vacation until the holidays. Pupils admitted any day for a term of six or more weeks. Piano Organ, Singing, Band and String instruments taught. For catalogue address, with stamp, Henry B. Moyer.

DINED IN THE KITCHEN.

One Satisfactory Meal Grant Had After His Tour of the World.

"When General Grant stopped at the Palmer House in Chicago on his return from his tour of the world," said a man who was there at the time, "the steward was all but stupefied one noon at seeing the ex-president slide in at the kitchen door as though escaping from some one.

"'I am sorry to trouble you,' he said, as though asking a great favor, 'but may I have a little corned beef and cabbage?'

"'Why, certainly,' the steward replied; 'but shan't I send it out to you in the dining room?'

"'No,' he answered; 'I'll eat it right here if you'll let me sit down.'

"So a place on the rough board table, where the cook had been fixing the meat, was cleared, and Grant drew up a stool and set to, and the way he got away with that corned beef and cabbage was a caution. When he had finished, he laid down his knife and fork with a funny sigh of satisfaction, put one hand on the steward's shoulder and said:

"'Young man, I don't suppose you care for that at all, but if you had had to eat what I have for the past few months it would taste like a dinner for the gods. It tastes homey!'

"The ex-president had dined with everybody from the queen down, but that cabbage and corned beef doubtless reminded him of the time when he was not so well known, but probably far happier—when people in St. Louis called him 'captain' when they spoke to him and bought the wood he carted into town to sell."

Character at a Glance.

An insignificant nose means an insignificant man. An open mouth is a sure sign of an empty head (keep yours closed). A projecting upper lip shows malignity and avarice. Pointed noses generally belong to meddlesome people. Large eyes in a small face betoken maliciousness.

A retreating chin is always bad; it shows lack of resolution. A projecting under lip indicates ostentation, self conceit and folly. Fine hair generally betokens native good taste and intelligence.

A dimple in the chin is pretty, but indicates weak mental organization. High cheek bones always indicate great force of character in some direction. Fullness of the temples is supposed to show powers of mathematical calculation.

A small mouth, with nose and nostril also small, shows indecision and cowardice. Half shut eyes show natural shrewdness, together with lack of sincerity. Slow moving eyes are always found in the heads of persons of prudence and ability.—London Answers.

Wheat In Fable and History.

Possibly wheat was the corn so plenty in Egypt when famine drove thither Joseph's unnatural brethren. Wheat went with other precious things into the mummy cases and sealed jars stored in royal tombs. Today acres by the thousand laugh in bearded grain said to have sprung from sparse kernels plundered by a ruthless explorer from a royal mummy's hand. Does it whisper now—this new-old Egyptian wheat—to its constant friend the sun, of Rameses and Pharoah—of Apis, the sacred bull—of Isis, Egypt's Ceres—of Osiris—the great sphinx—and Memnon's head, singing to hail the sunrise? If it would but speak aloud so mortals could comprehend, how our wisdom might be broadened! What a recasting of history must be wrought, and how we boasting moderns might hide diminished heads!—Everybody's Magazine.

FINS OF THE FLYING FISH.

They Are Used as Parachutes Rather Than as Wings.

Out from the warmer seas fly the flying fish, the fish of which every one has heard, which yet none can see for the first time without a gasp of amazement, without a feeling as though beholding the miraculous, the fish which has given rise to more untruthful stories than any other fish in all the seas.

Undoubtedly the flying fish has wings like a bird; undoubtedly it flies, yet not as a bird. It does not flap the wing-like, pectoral fins on which it is upborne, nor, once launched in the air, can it change its course by any movement of its wings until it dips again to the water. Yet it will pass a ship making ten knots in the hour and travel in the air as far as 500 feet at a time.

Astounding, indeed, is the sight of a shoal of flying fish taking to the air, skimming far over the surface when the sea is calm, leaping high over great waves when gales blow. Fish seem ludicrously out of their element in the air, but that fish should fly is not really more wonderful than that some animals and birds, like the otter or the penguin, dive and swim to perfection.

The flying fish's fins are really parachutes to support and steady its body rather than wings to propel it. The lobe of the tail gives propulsion to the body as it leaves the water. A flying fish measures about a foot in length, and its long, transparent pectoral fins reach almost to the tail; but, though very large when expanded, they can be folded up very neatly. Its flight is short and intermittent, and it must needs continually dip into the sea to give itself a fresh start.—Pearson's.

The Other Half.

FIRING A SALUTE.

The Way Two Naval Greenhorns Did It on a Warship.

"On one of Uncle Sam's warships once," said a naval officer, "we had enlisted among our able seamen two Irishmen, Mike and Barney. They had come aboard three days after they had landed in the country, but they learned some things so quickly that they had acquired a very definite idea of the meaning of the Fourth of July long before the day arrived, which was something like a month after we had sailed on our cruise. It chanced that the two were on an early morning watch together when Independence day dawned, and they at once began to plan for its proper welcome. They seemed to realize, you see, that there was necessity for an unusual display of patriotism.

"Barney suggested they fire a salute from one of the forward eight pounders, but Mike feared that would rouse the entire ship. 'Niver moind,' answered Barney. 'Do ye hold a bucket ferninst the muzzle, an' 'twill deaden the sound.' And three minutes later that gun went off with such a roar as brought every man of the crew out of the midst of peaceful dreams.

"I sent for Barney. 'Now, my man,' said I, 'tell me everything.'

"'Sure,' he faltered, 'it was only a bit uv a cilibration because uv our indipindence.'

"'And where's Mike?' I demanded.

"'Captain, dear,'' he groaned, 'he wint afther a bucket uv wather, an' if he comes back as quick as he wint he's due roight now.'"

And then the officer closed his story with the simple statement, "But Mike was never recovered."

Sinister Motives.

Two men—William Jones and John Smith—were neighbors and deadly enemies. They often crossed swords in court and out of it, and Jones, being what might be called more clever than Smith, invariably got the better of the encounter. In the end so cowed was Smith that the slightest move on the part of Jones made him nervous and suspicious, and with the remark, "I wonder what object he has in this?" he called up all his reserve faculties to combat the fresh attack which poor Jones never contemplated.

One day a friend called on Smith and greeted him with:

"Well, old man, have you heard the news?"

"No," said Smith. "What news?"

"Jones is dead. He died last night at midnight," replied the other.

Smith paused, drew a hard breath, raised his hand to his forehead and thought, then blurted out:

"Dead, did you say—Jones dead? Great heavens, I wonder what object he has in this?"

Bleeding by Bowshot.

That all diseases can be cured by bleeding is still firmly believed by several savage tribes, and especially by the Papuan negroes.

When one of their physicians becomes convinced that it is necessary to bleed a patient, he goes several feet in front of him and then, drawing his bow, he fits a sharp pointed arrow to it and after a careful aim fires the arrow into the vein which he desires to open. The arrow, it is said, invariably goes straight to the mark, and the thorn or splinter of glass with which it is tipped does the work as successfully as a lancet.

Moreover, the patients never show the slightest fear, since they are convinced that from the moment the arrows pierce their veins they will begin to recover.

Some Nonsense.

"The bow of a ship," says a humorous handbook of nautical terms, "is not evidence of politeness. It reminds us of a line in 'Flotsam From the Isle:'"

And the hands went up to the nose of the boat, displaying a lack of good taste,
And first began to pull at her stays and then to scrub at her waist.

This, it may be remembered, occurred off the Isle of Rudeness, where—

A spit ran down to the bay,
And a tongue of land projected in a most unmannerly way.

For a Pinch of Snuff.

Louis XVIII. of France, while reciting an ode of Horace to his chamberlain one day, suddenly stopped to take a pinch of snuff and was annoyed to find that he had left the box in his bedroom.

With a low bow the chamberlain handed him his own box, and the monarch took a good pinch from it, after which he recited the long ode to the end. He then said to the chamberlain:

"You have a poor niece, I believe. Well, I like your snuff so well that I propose, as a token of gratitude to you, to give her the right to open a toy store in the Tuileries. I will sign the necessary papers this evening."

Thanks to this royal grant, the chamberlain's niece conducted a small but profitable business until her death, in 1859. Her little store then became the property of the state, and ever since it has been rented for about 400 francs a year.

Thus the French republic of today owes a portion of its income to the fact that Louis XVIII. appreciated good snuff.

Voices of the Ice.

The winter of the far north is not wholly silent, although so little life is manifest at that season. A paragraph from Captain Koldewey's account of his winter's stay on the east coast of Greenland makes this fact very clear:

All these movements of the ice—the gradual crowding and pressing, bending and pushing, the breaking of the masses of snow lying at the "ice foot"—do not go on noiselessly, but are generally accompanied by certain sounds, which are called the "voices" of the ice.

Now we hear a low singing, splashing or grumbling, alternating with various other noises, cracking and snapping; now it sounds irregularly from a great distance, like a confusion of human voices, the changing din of a train or a sledging party, or you fancy you hear the steps and voices of all sorts of animals.

There is a charm in listening to these sounds on a still night.

Smells of Cities.

A famous English artist insists that each city has its own peculiar odor; that a stranger can smell a city—"the great, blended odor of the entire city." There is truth in his remarks. When a stranger enters Munich, there is a smell as of many breweries—a peculiar, sweetish, yet pungent odor of malt, not at all unpleasant to a beer drinker. After a day or two the smell is not remarked, but after the stranger leaves the city the smell is distinct in his memory; it exerts a spell; it urges him to drop his work, to take the next steamship. We have not been in Munich for seventeen years, but that sweet smell haunts us still. Paris has a peculiarly individual odor; so has London, so has Berlin, so has Dresden. Boston no doubt has its own smell, which is highly respectable, rather musty, with a suspicion of old family cockroaches.

How Coal Resembles Ice.

The Electrical Review calls attention to an interesting explanation of the burning of coal. Coal petroleum and illuminating gas are related to one another much as are ice, water and steam. For this reason perfect combustion of liquid fuel is already advanced a long step toward vaporization, just as ice is advanced toward steam when turned into water. The volatile elements of coal are locked up in solid form, or virtually frozen solid. Professor Dewar demonstrated how great an amount of heat must be taken from the so called permanent gases to make them liquid and how much more to make them solid. Yet nature has solidified gas into the form of coal, and solid coal, like solid ice, will only dissolve into vapor through the expenditure of heat.

Her Busy Business.

Towne—When Miss Gabbil told me she was in business, I couldn't help thinking she meant everybody else's business.

Browne—That's about right.

Towne—What you might call a wholesale business, eh?

Browne—Well, yes; except that she retails scandals at wholesale rates.—Philadelphia Press.

Familiarity.

"It isn't true in all cases," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "that familiarity breeds contempt. The more you know about the hind feet of a mule the more respect you have for them."—Chicago Tribune.

"Centsitive."

"An Albany man has sent a cent to the treasury conscience fund."

"Must have a centsitive conscience."

"Or a pennyurious one."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why Savages Turn In Their Toes.

In the first place, the foot naturally takes that position when it has never been confined by boots or the ankle distorted by high heels. Convenience is also on the side of the natural position of the foot in the case of the savage, for he has to do much walking through long grass and undergrowth in forests. Consequently his progress would be much impeded if he turned his toes out to catch these obstacles instead of brushing them aside and outward, as he now does. Lastly, the savage uses his foot much more as a help to his hands than we do, and it is obvious that in doing this he must turn his toes in.

It is not a waste to buy somebody a bunch of flowers, a box of candy or a new book when it is going to bring a smile to her face and happiness to her heart.—Exchange.

Crop Report.

The State crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau, issued on the 2d, says: Conditions continued favorable for farm work and the maturing of crops except where affected by drought and cool nights. The showers were unevenly distributed, and in some sections more rain is needed for late crops, plowing, and seeding.

Corn in most parts of the State will be a large crop, but in others it has been shortened by cool weather and insufficient moisture; absence of frost and other favorable conditions will yet largely increase the yield of the late crop. Buckwheat has grown rapidly and reports favor a good harvest; a little of the early has been cut. Tobacco is generally backward and has lacked vigorous growth for want of moisture; early cut Havana is curing well and the cutting of seed leaf commenced. Potatoes are of large size but mostly short in yield and there are many complaints of blight and rot. Hay from the late cuttings is of better quality and yield than from the early. Wheat and oat thrashing show these crops to be fully up to former estimates. Pasturage is plentiful and vegetables abundant and of good quality. Apples are of good size, fairly plentiful in some sections, and scarce in others; the pear crop is large and peaches fair. Most farm work is well advanced and some fall seeding done.

Big Freight Business Coming.

The movement of the western grain crops, the most important and difficult portion of the annual traffic of railroads in the west and middle west, is about to start. The railroads have been busily preparing for this work for several weeks past and thousands of cars are now drifting into the great western grain marts. The movements this year will break all records.

It is estimated that the corn crop will make 2,333,000 carloads of thirty tons each. With fifty cars in each train this would load 46,000 trains. Even estimating that the largest portion of this corn crop will not be given a long haul, but will be fed to live stock near the place where it is grown, it will mean just so much more in the way of fat cattle and hogs that must be moved to market, and whether it is carried in one form or the other the big crop means business for the freight department. Then when the farmers of the corn section have plenty of grain and live stock to sell they have money to spend and the return trips of the freight trains must carry to them from the east the articles they want to buy.

BANNER SALVE, the most healing salve in the world. C. M. Parrish.

—"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas. Forest of Sheppewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Banner Salve entirely cured it."—C. M. Parrish.

—Brazilian Balm loosens the cough and cures the cold like magic. Then, it does not injure the ears or wreck the kidneys like quinine.

—Every time you cough take 10 drop of Brazilian Balm 50 doses 25c. It's magic.

How Bright's Disease Starts.

Indigestion, biliousness, blood poisoned with urea and uric acid (which should have been excreted by the kidneys), rheumatic pains in nerves and joints, causing irritation of the kidneys, then pains over the small of the back, mark sure approach of Bright's disease. Do not delay taking Foley's Kidney Cure, for it makes the kidneys right. Take no substitute. C. M. Parrish.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you Eat

People once thought that the only way to cure indigestion was to stop eating. The trouble with such treatment is, that to stop eating is to stop living. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE has changed the whole method of treating this complaint. It contains all the natural digestive fluids and digests all you eat without aid from the stomach, so you can eat all the good food you want and be cured of your trouble at the same time.

"I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for several years and often sat down to eat but had to give it up after eating only two bites. I used two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and am alright to-day. Can now eat anything I want. W. L. Easton, Audubon, Iowa."

It can't help but do you good

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

When you suffer from biliousness or constipation, use the famous little liver pills known as DeWitt's Little EARLY RISERS. They never gripe.

C. M. PARRISH.

For Sale.

A good locomotive boiler carries 120 lbs of steam good for a saw mill or any purpose. Inquire of Louis Rosenthal at Garman House.

—Allen Halverson of West Prairie, Wis., says: "people come ten miles to buy Foley's Kidney Cure," while J. A. Spero of Helmer, Ind., says: "It is the medical wonder of the age."—C. M. Parrish.

Foley's Kidney Cure.

Is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skilful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. C. M. Parrish.

Half the World is in Darkness.

As to the cause of their ill health. If they would start to treat their kidneys with Foley's Kidney Cure, the weariness of body and mine, backache and rheumatic pains would disappear.—C. M. Parrish.

No Relief for 20 Years.

"I had bronchitis for twenty years," said Mrs. Minerva Smith of Danville, Ill, "and at times have been bedfast. I never got relief until I had taken Foley's Honey and Tar. It is pleasant and gives quick relief, and is a sure cure for throat and lung diseases." Take nothing else. C. M. Parrish.

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more rapidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures quickly and permanently. Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Philips, Paris, Ill. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothes and heals. PARRISH'S DRUG STORE.

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion is perfect and whose stomach performs its every function is never sick. Kodol cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they eat. Rev. J. M. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes: Kodol has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was given up by physicians. Kodol saved my life. Take it after meals.—PARRISH'S DRUG STORE.

Hundreds are going blind daily, from the need of the proper prescribed glasses and from delaying attention to the eyes from time to time. Nothing will destroy your eyesight quicker than cheap glasses or glasses not properly fitted to your eyes.

Prof. Angel, in the short time he has been visiting this section, has met with marked success. Scores of leading citizens of this community have found relief from his treatment. It is not necessary to travel to Eastern cities for treatment when you can consult an eminent oculist at home.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Every Member of Council Present—The Water Question Discussed.

The regular semi-monthly session of council met Monday evening at 7:30 in council chamber in the Public building on Howard street. President Reynolds was in the chair and the following members present: Potter, Garrity, Kirk, Whittaker, Mallory, Derstine, Cunningham and Knisely. Boro Solicitor, D. F. Fortney, Water Superintendent Samuel Ryan and Street Commissioner Thomas Shaughnesy were all present ready to give any information pertaining to their departments.

The minutes of the previous regular meeting and also of the special meeting were read by the clerk, Mr. Pontius, after which the council considered the business before them.

Chairman Derstine of the Street committee reported two new crossings being laid. Have advertised for bids for the laying of the stone wall along Water street.

Chairman Garrity of the Water committee reported a great deal of dissatisfaction with the water rates charged the large consumers. The mason work at the reservoir is about completed He recommended the building of a retaining wall along the south side.

Mr. Knisely spoke in favor of giving the larger consumers a reduction from the rate decided upon.

Mr. Garrity claimed that the rate agreed upon was as low as any in the state except Lancaster. He said that he did not believe in forcing the rate through if the balance of council was not with the Water committee. The present tax levy said Dr. Kirk will yield about $8,000 or only $1500 more than last year. Private consumers have been raised only ten per cent.

Mr. Whittaker was in favor of giving the hotels and manufacturing establishments the water at a trifle above cost.

The matter was discussed at some length, but no action was taken.

Dr. Kirk made a motion to the effect that Supt. Ryan be instructed to ascertain if the Steam Heat company desire to use water during the coming winter and if so that two 2-inch meters be placed on their pipes and that they be charged the rate agreed upon. The motion was seconded by Mr. Potter and carried.

Chairman Potter of the Finance committee asked that an order be drawn in favor of boro treasurer, George R. Meek, for $61.31 to pay interest on Thompson and Meyer notes. It was so ordered.

Mr. Mallory reported a bad board walk on Pine street, which should be repaired. It was referred to street committees.

Bids for the erecting of the stone wall along Water street were received from James A. McCafferty, Conard Miller and John Noll.

A bid was received from G. E. Haupt offering to build a cement wall and pavement along that street.

Mr. Potter said that in the present state of the boro finances they were not in shape to build this wall as it would cost at the least estimate furnished $2,600.

Mr. Garrity moved that the matter be laid over until next meeting night. Mr. Knisely seconded the motion and it was carried.

The following bills were approved and orders drawn:

| | |
|---|---|
| J. H. Wetzel | $12.00 |
| Police Pay Roll | 56.00 |
| W. C. Cassidy, printing | 1.80 |
| R. B. Taylor, coal for W. W | 167.73 |
| McCalmont & Co., fire brick | 33.50 |
| John Noll, setting boiler | 82.75 |
| H. B. Pontius | 13.42 |
| Thos. Shaughnessy | 1.00 |
| Street pay roll | $111.41 |
| Water Pay Roll | 148.26 |
| | 629.57 |

In Memory of McKinley.

The Reformed congregation of Bellefonte held beautiful and appropriate services in memory of our Martyred President, William McKinley in Petrikin Hall Sunday evening. There was a large number present and all seemed to feel and appreciate the deep solemnity of the occasion.

Rev. Ambrose Schmidt, the pastor, delivered an eloquent and forceful sermon especially for young men.

Taking the life of McKinley for his theme he showed the many valuable lessons which it taught and he impressed upon the young men present the importance of right living.

The favorite hymns of McKinley were rendered by the choir.

McKinley Memorial Services in the Lutheran Church.

The Lutheran church was crowded Sunday evening to listen to services specially commemorative of the death of the lamented William McKinley which occured just one year ago Sunday. Dr. H. C. Holloway, the pastor gave a beautiful talk appropriate to the occasion in which he paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of the martyred president.

"Nearer My God to Thee", "Lead Kindly Light" and other favorite hymns of McKinley were rendered by the choir.

DEATH OF JAMES CLARK.

Beech Creek Loses One of Its Highly Respected Citizens.

James Clark, who has been the well known justice of the peace of Beech Creek since 1862, died at his home in that borough at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning of the infirmities of age.

He was born July 26, 1821. In addition to serving the people of Beech Creek as justice he also was chief burgess for many years and held other borough offices. He was a citizen who was held in marked veneration, he being honorable in all his actions and conscientious in his decisions when affecting the interests of other people. His wife died many years ago, but he is survived by the following named children: William L., Robert H., Harry B., Mrs. A. B. Brady and Miss Josephine, of Beech Creek; John W., of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Keyes, of Maple Grove, Mo.

The funeral will take place this morning at 10.30 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the house by Rev. L. F. Brown. Interment in Clark's Hill cemetery.

"Economy" Thanks Republican and Gives Good Advice.

Sept. 15, 1902.

Editor of REPUBLICAN:

As a tax payer of Bellefonte I wish to thank you for the interest you have manifested in keeping our citizens informed as to the proceedings of the Town Council, and to assure you of my appreciation as well as that of hundreds of others, in publishing in your paper matters which otherwise we would have been in ignorance. Your exposure of the methods of the Water Committee has startled and amazed every one. This Committee composed as it is, of gentlemen of more than ordinary intelligence, has certainly made some expensive mistakes, and I hope before they finally purchasethe new pump, for the water works, will consult with Mr. William R. Jenkins of our town, who is authority on hydraulics. He would give valuable information and as a property holder would be interested in securing machinery that would accomplish the best results.

If not too late, let them have the advantage of his practical knowledge, and not experiment any farther.

Yours truly,
ECONOMY.

We cheerfully publish the above communication from one of our most prominent citizens, as its tone is moderate, although we have received a great many letters, which were rather too strong in their language to insert in our columns.

The Soldiers' Monument.

On Monday evening the Committee on Design for the Soldiers' Monument and Curtin Memorial met at the residence of Mrs. A. G. Curtin on High street having been called by the Chairman Dr. G. W. Atherton to inspect a design for said monument, which had been prepared by George Grey Barnard, the sculptor.

This design provides for an elaborate monument, differing in form from anything we have ever seen, instead of being a shaft, it is but twenty-five feet high, with a length of sixty feet; the front and rear of which is arranged for tablets containing the names of every soldier and sailor who served in the civil war from Centre county, on either end is a figure of marble representing the "Call to arms" and the "Group of arms"; immediately in front, in the center, is a statue in bronze of Ex-Governor Curtin, heroic size. The entire monument will be built of dark Italian marble, and when completed will be a master piece of art.

Owing to the great length, it is a serious question where it can be placed, as it would hardly do in the front of the Court House, for it would hide that building from view. It has been suggested that in the park, back of the Court House would be a very suitable place, and if the Commissioners are willing, it will most probably be erected there.

Reception to Judge Pennypacker and Others.

After the speech making at Grange Park, Tuesday Governor Hastings had carriages prepared and the following persons drove over to Bellefonte, instead of coming by train:—Judge Pennypacker, Senator Penrose, Hon. S. R. Dresser, and Hon. A. E. Patton. They went to the Hastings residence where an elaborate dinner was prepared, after which a public reception was held and hundreds of our citizens without regard to politics called upon the distinguished visitors. They left on the 8.16 train with a high opinion of the hospitality of Centre County.

Democratic Day at The Park.

To-day Ex.-Gov. Pattison and a party of distinguished democratic politicians will visit the Park, and will be received by an immense crowd of persons from both political parties. We hope their visit may be one of pleasure, and that they will receive the same courteous reception, which was accorded Judge Pennypacker and his friends.

For the accommodation of the great crowd arrangements have been made for special trains from Bellefonte and Coburn, which insures but little delay in going and coming.
